Dr. Harold Harvey watches two members of his team tag fish on Plastic Lake

Dr. Harold Harvey and his team seek proof of how, why acid rain kills fish

by Len Pizzev

Dr. Harold Harvey is sipping coffee over the last of breakfast and talking about what he terms "the $64 question". It revolves around the future of forests, rivers, lakes and most particularly, fish in a vast area of hard, ancient rock known as the Canadian Shield.

Considering that there are more than a million lakes in that area, Dr. Harvey is saying, "we know shockingly little" about how they are reacting to an insidious and omnipresent phenomenon known as acid rain.

Scientists know that some 200 pounds of dilute sulphuric, nitric and hydrochloric acid are falling on every acre of this part of Ontario every year. They know it has been happening for at least a decade. They know that the bulk of the emissions that combine with rain to form mild acid originate in the northeastern United States. And they know too that the gradual build-up of hydrogen ions in fresh water can wreak havoc on fish populations. But they don't as yet know at what rate and by what mechanism acid rains harms fish, aquatic plants, and forests.

"We can't yet build a predictive model," Dr. Harvey explains. "And if you can't build a predictive model, you don't really understand."

Four young men are also finishing up breakfast as he talks across a battered table in an old school house near the Leslie Frost Centre. Owned by the University of Toronto, the building is serving as the field headquarters for a research project that may provide at least a partial answer to that "$64 question".

The men are tired, dishevelled. They worked late into the night yesterday, and may again this night, so there is no hurry. The four are part of a team headed by Dr. Harvey, one of Canada's leading fish biologists, and they have been working seven days a week for months.

On a $186,000 contract with the Ministry of the Environment, Dr. Harvey and his team are monitoring fish populations and physiology in some 20 acid stressed lakes in Haliburton, Muskoka and Hastings County. It is a complex, exacting, and often boring process, but it is also vital to the future.

As Dr. Harvey explains, some things are already known about acid rain, but much remains to be proven. In Plastic Lake for example, one of the five lakes receiving close attention from the research team, dead fish have been turning up in large numbers every spring. The lake is moving downward on its buffer curve, meaning that it has almost exhausted its ability to neutralize acidity. Its pH falls drastically each spring as run-off carries some of the 200 pounds per acre per year of acid into the watershed. Rising acidity and dying fish may seem like a clear cut case of cause and effect, but that doesn't satisfy scientific principles.

"We can establish that fish are dying," Dr. Harvey says. "We can establish that the acid level is rising. But we cannot establish a causal

Road closure by-law was illegally passed lawyer tells council

A lawyer representing a group of Twelve Mile Lake cottagers has accused Anson, Hinton and Minden council of acting in bad faith, and has called on council to rescind a by-law the cottagers claim was passed illegally.

Numbered 79-11, the by-law closed to vehicular traffic a section of formerly travelled road through the Hart Lodge property.

Fred Funston, a member of the cottagers association executive, and Donald Stanbury, a lawyer representing the cottagers, presented council with a petition last Wednesday night that claimed the road, which provided access to the west end of the lake, was improperly closed. Reason for the claim is that the by-law was passed without following the dictates of Sections 443 and 446 of the Municipal Act. The sections provide that such closures must be advertised in local papers for four weeks prior to the passing of the by-law, posted in at least six prominent public places for four weeks prior to the closure, and submitted to county council for approval, giving the public ample time for objections.

Clerk Elinor Burk "has assured me that notice was not given," Stanbury said in defense of the petition.

Controversy surrounding the road dates back to 1974, when the MTC ordered closed a one lane road over a dam at the mouth of the lake. At that time council entered into an agreement with the owner of Hart Lodge which the owner understood would involve the closure of the road through the lodge property. A new road was constructed at a cost of $12,000 passing through the rear of the lodge property, but the road through the front of the lodge remained open. The owner then refused to deed the new road to council unless the old road was closed, and the matter was slated for a hearing before the courts in May of this year. The passing of the by-law to close the road through the lodge to vehicular traffic appeared to end the confrontation, and the deed to the new road was signed over.

But the cottagers are not satisfied with the arrangement, and want council to strike the closure by-law from the books and begin the process over again, this time allowing time for objections to be heard.

Close to 40 cottagers were on hand at the meeting last Wednesday to hear the petition presented.

Citing the appropriate sections of the Municipal Act, Stanbury told council the by-law was passed illegally, and as such, the road should not have been barricaded.

"Should residents of the west side of Twelve Mile Lake feel they have been sufficiently inconvenienced, they may have cause for action for the period of time that the road has been improperly

Harry Parrott replies to complaints about Minden sewer connections

Lost laterals 'not unusual' Minister says

A time lag between completion of construction and home owners hooking onto service is the main cause of problems in locating sewer service connections, Ontario's Minister of the Environment has told Anson, Hinton and Minden council. In a letter read at a meeting of council last Wednesday, Harry Parrott said that "on a large sewage and water project such as constructed in your municipality it is not unusual to experience some difficulty in locating a few service laterals."

Council has received several letters from village residents complaining that local contractors either had trouble finding or could not find service laterals, resulting in extra expense and inconvenience. Parrott's letter came in reply to a letter from council informing the Minister of the problems.

Parrott noted that during the time between the project completion and individual connection, "many home owners remove the marker stakes because of obstruction to mowing lawns, or change the landscape, thereby burying further the sewer lateral and the water stop valve. If the home owner does not take into account these changes, when he locates his connection he will undoubtedly dig in the wrong place, or wrong depth."

The location of laterals is recorded on service connection record sheets which are available for use by home owners connecting up to the sewer system. But problems have arisen in Minden because of changes in the location of poles, or misreading of the sheets by local contractors.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said

that if contractors "don't look at the sheets and start with the right measurements," the sewer connection "could be anywhere."

He suggested that problems could be avoided if sewage plant operator Gene Newell were called in to verify lateral locations according to the connection record sheets before excavation work begins.

"If, after reasonable dig-

Acetylene tips, explosion rips through trailer

An explosion that ripped through a semi-trailer caused an estimated $12,000 damage early last Wednesday morning. No one was injured in the blast, which occurred when a canister of acetylene ignited.

Russell R. Jones, 38, of Peterborough, was backing the trailer up in the Haliburton County Roads Department gravel pit in Stanhope Township when the vehicle hit a bump, causing an acetylene cylinder to tip over.

Maintenance funds to stay the same

Anson, Hinton and Minden council's efforts to get more road maintenance money from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications received another setback last week when council was informed that a Roads Need study would not help their cause.

A letter from W. D. Ham, MTC Municipal Engineer, told council that "a Roads Need study would not benefit the township other than setting up a priority program for construction. The problem appears to be maintenance costs rather than construction, and a Needs study would not assist there."

Council has long taken the position that it does not receive enough maintenance money to keep roads in the village in good condition. Snowplowing and repair costs have frequently forced council to overspend on the road budget. This year council is considering keeping within the budget and ceasing maintenance when the budget runs out.

Only three percent of the road miles in the municipality are urban, and it is difficult to rationalize the high cost of urban maintenance," Ham's letter said. "Your municipal-

Anson, Hindon, Minden council meet

At a meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council last Wednesday, the following matters were considered:

Mr. Funston and a Mr. Stanbury spoke on behalf of the Twelve Mile Lake Property Owners Association and outlined the association reasons for objecting to by-law 79-11. They requested that the by-law be rescinded, the barricades removed and a new by-law be prepared, pursuant to Section 443 and 446 of The Municipal Act. The clerk was directed to investigate the matter for the next meeting.

A Mr. Wickens attended to obtain council's position on the road and Block A. Council instructed the clerk to obtain confirmation regarding the status and maintenance responsibility of the roadway and Block A which was dedicated to the township when the plan was registered.

A letter was received from H. Parrott, Ministry of Environment advising how difficulties in locating individual sewer connections occur and explaining how to resolve the problems encountered.

Vinton Loucks and A. Cooper attended council regarding surveying the Old Ingoldby Road.

It was resolved that the municipality agrees to absorb the costs of a survey to establish the 66 foot road allowance on the Old Ingoldby Road crossing, Lot 16, Concession 3, and Lots 16, 17, 18, Concession 2, Minden Township subject to proper agreements being obtained between the township and the affected land owners.

Council agreed to pay Walter Ackersblade machine operator's wages effective July 1, 1979 until snow plowing operations commence in the fall.

Council decided it has no objection to Mrs. B. Almeida repairing an existing boat-house and cribs in Lot 10, Concession 8, Township of Minden, providing a building permit is obtained and the size and location of the boat-house is not altered.

Two tenders were received for a 1980 model and one tender for a 1979 model and a letter re: a 1979 model.

Council decided to accept the tender of Curry Motors Limited for the supply of one 1980 half ton pick-up truck in the amount of $7,336.92 subject to the approval of the M.T.C. Delivery date shall be not later than October 3, 1979.

Earl Kent was authorized to attend the 1979 Huntsville Road School on October 23 and 24 and the registration fee of $25 will be remitted to the Ontario Good Roads Association.

Pursuant to a verbal report from the clerk and upon reviewing the information contained in the township minutes and the South Bob Lake Association minutes, council agreed that the association should bear the costs of the severance applications to correct the ownership of the roadway on registered Plan 357.

Policy #29 as amended relative to waterway speed limits was approved.

A proposal by C. Latham to sever his property with 166 feet of frontage into two lots with 80 and 86 feet of frontage respectively was denied by council because the size does not conform with By-law 14-67 as amended.

A letter, copy of an appraisal and an offer was received from C. J. Royce relative to the park land adjacent to his property. The clerk was directed to advise that all the township park lands were being reviewed and he would be notified of council's decision regarding the status of this particular piece of property.

General accounts were approved for payment in the amount of $8,930.69.

Council agreed in addition to the contents of resolution #79-242, to participate financially in conjunction with the other townships in the county to support the one-half day seminar for by-law enforcement officers.

A statement was received from concerned mothers who were in favour of a day care centre. The clerk was directed to advise that if a suitable area was available, council would entertain a rezoning application.

The local contractors presently involved in making sewer connections in the village will be instructed to contact the Operator of the Sewage Treatment Plant, before commencing any excavation on the property, to attend at the site to properly locate the connection.

By-law 79-31, a by-law to rezone part of Lot 24, Concession 2, in the Township of Minden from the 'RU' zone to the 'RCA' zone to permit the establishment of a cottage park, was passed.

Monmouth council meeting

At a meeting of Monmouth Township council August 13, the following matters were considered:

General accounts of $59,921.88, Welfare payroll of $956.50, Roads voucher of $15,071.46, and Ontario Home Renewal program voucher of $1,000 were approved for payment.

Severances H184/79 and H209/79 were approved.

Council agreed to rezone to Seasonal Recreational that portion of land on Otter Lake, Concession 14, part Lot 27, which was an oversight on the original by-law 78-6, namely George Earle's lake property, formerly known as Sunset Cottages.

It was resolved that office equipment must remain in the township office, to be operated by staff only.

Council decided the clerk will be reimbursed for her costs of $185 re: passing Principals of Accounting course.

Council decided that Frank C. Baumhour will be notified that he will be permitted to trap fur bearing animals on the old CNR right-of-way, the same as last year, during the 1979-80 trapping season. Council suggested he contact Ross Anderson for permission to trap beaver on the Anderson property.

Joanne Coumbs was appointed to the Monmouth Recreation Board.

The meeting adjourned at 12:30 a.m., and reconvened

August 21 to complete the agenda.

Application will be made to join the central dog pound at Faraday in Lot 10, Concession A, council decided.

The clerk was authorized to pay the invoice from Frank A. Cowan Insurance Agency Ltd.

The clerk was also authorized to inform the owner of property number 16035000-200 that council has been made aware of continued activity in the wrecking business. The business had the approval of council for the period of one year from November 5, 1975, and this approval has now lapsed. The clerk was further authorized to inform the said owner that the said owner must discontinue the activity of a wrecking business of make application for a zoning change to comply with by-law 78-6.

Council voted to accept Robert D. Ferguson's rezoning application on Little Glamour Lake, rezoning Lots 1 and 2, Concession 14 and Lot 3, Concession 13 from Rural to S.R.

Ken Sanderson will be notified that a deposit of $200 is required to accompany his application for rezoning.

The clerk was authorized to request the Ministry of Transportation and Communication to place a symbol board at the junction of Highway 648 and 121 west to designate Wilberforce and what it has to offer.

Severance H231/79 and H232/79 were approved provided none of the severed lots or created lots have frontage of less than 197 feet and not less than 1 1/2 acres.

It was resolved that Dave Ball's invoice of $95 be paid and the invoice from Resco Recreation for $798.22 be paid.

Council will meet again September 10, unless special meetings are required prior to that date.

Councillor Lyle McKnight also suggested that "the municipality should be called in" if home owners can't find laterals "So we'll know what's going on, rather than fill in the hole and write council a letter."

closed," Stanbury told council.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said council acted on the advice of their solicitor Donald Finn, in passing the by-law. "Mr. Finn could have been wrong. We have to act on his opinion," Nesbitt said.

He said the new road provided much safer access to Highway 35 than the old road, and that council felt the closure was therefore justified. "We have to have a proper, safe road," the reeve said.

"I'm not arguing whether the road should or should not be closed," Stanbury replied.

"You did not follow the proper procedure," Stanbury added.

"If the municipality acted for one individual, then it acted in bad faith," he said. "Are you saying we acted in bad faith?" councillor Stu Brandon asked Stanbury.

The lawyer replied that he was saying council "may have" acted in bad faith.

"Well you're wrong," Brandon said.

Council agreed to consider the petition in consultation with a solicitor. A decision on the matter is expected at council's next meeting September 12.

A drag line has been busy this week clearing the Drag River and Head Lake shores of logs as work continues on the first phase of a park overlooking the lake. Fill for the amphitheatre is already in place, and grading of the site is well underway.

Day care centre a good idea, Minden councillors agreed

Anson, Hindon and Minden council thinks a day care centre would be a good idea in the Village of Minden, and is willing to entertain the zoning change that would make such a centre possible. Council is not prepared, however, to take responsibility for organizing or administering such a centre.

The matter arose in a letter from some 25 women in the municipality calling on council to get a day care centre started. While council was quick to agree with the concept of a day care centre, it was also quick to make it clear that the centre should be a project of the public rather than the municipality.

"They've got a perfect group right there to get one off the ground," Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said, referring to the 25 ratepayers who signed the letter.

Councillor Len Lonsberry agreed. "There's no way the municipality can start a day care centre," he said.

Acid rain

relationship without further experimentation." To establish if there is a direct relationship between acid rain and the fate of fish in Plastic Lake, a complete statistical picture must be built up. That picture begins with the preparation of a hydrogen ion budget. The Ministry of the Environment has set up V notch weirs on Plastic and several other area lakes. The weirs contain instruments that monitor the amount of hydrogen ions, (or acid) entering and leaving the lakes through streams. Along with tests on the acid level of the lakes themselves throughout the year, the "budget" will provide a statistical picture of how much acid enters the lakes, how much of it is neutralized, and how much of it remains in the water, pushing the lakes toward complete acidification and "death".

The next step in the experimental process is to monitor changes in the "biota", or plant and animal life within the lake as acidity rises. And that is where Dr. Harvey and his team come in.

To get a picture of what is happening to fish in Plastic and other lakes, traps are set up and monitored daily. Numbers and kinds of fish are noted as the traps are emptied. The larger fish are weighed, measured and tagged. A scale is also removed from the fish and placed in an envelope before the fish is returned to the water unharmed. That scale will later be examined in a laboratory, where it will reveal information about the fish's age, condition, and food supply, among other things. When a quarter of the large fish in a study lake have been tagged, the team moves on, setting up nets in another lake and repeating the process. In deep lakes where the trap nets cannot be set, a team may work all night with a purse sein net to bring up species that hug the cold bottom. Again each fish is weighed, measured and tagged. It can take weeks to complete a single lake.

Two teams of divers are also used in the information gathering process. They swim transit lines along the lake's bottom, often at night, noting the numbers and kinds of bottom life. Underwater tape recording equipment is used so the divers can keep a running commentary on what they see. Bottom samples are taken that will later be analyzed in the lab.

Already, evidence is strong that some species of fish are having trouble reproducing. If a team discovers no fish of one species under three years old for example, it is a clue that the species may be unable to reproduce. But before any conclusions can be drawn, the effect must be duplicated under controlled conditions in a laboratory. One of Dr. Harvey's students is already conducting such experiments at a research station on Opeongo Lake in Algonquin Park.

The experiments are a crucial step in a process that may lead to action on the acid rain problem.

The "Bottom line" on the whole question of acid rain is to reduce the acid loading, Dr. Harvey says. That means cleaner industry, fewer coal burning electrical plants, reduced emissions from cars and trucks. It means an air quality treaty between the United States and Canada. Getting that treaty, however, will not be easy.

"We're still flying by the seat of our pants in the sense that overall definition and direction have not yet come forward," Dr. Harvey says. "And it's a moot point from where that's going to come."

Until the two countries sit down at the negotiating table, "you don't dare stop investigating," Dr. Harvey stresses, because no one knows how much statistical data, how much scientific proof will be necessary to convince governments and industry that something must be done.

"We just don't know yet how far we have to go with this kind of documentation."

"We may be five years away from that kind of treaty."

Having accepted that acid rain will not be stopped this year or next, or even, perhaps, within a decade, the next question according to Dr. Harvey, is "what is the fallback position?"

It is a question to which much attention is being directed at the moment, and it is one that deeply concerns scientists like Harold Harvey. The Ministry of the Environment has committed funds to a controlled experiment in liming lakes to reduce acid levels. It's an expensive process that has met with limited success in other countries affected by acid rain, notably Sweden. In lakes like those in Haliburton County, with deep bottom sediments, liming would be largely useless, Dr. Harvey says, because the limestone pebbles that have been used in experiments would sink in the sediment and remain undissolved. As well, there simply isn't enough of the material to buffer lakes on a long term basis, even if cost and other considerations were left aside.

But there is a bigger problem associated with liming, Dr. Harvey thinks, and it could affect the potential for a long term solution. If lime could be used to save lakes, it is possible that "Americans may say 'you've solved the problem'. In that case we might never get a solution."

"The worst thing that could happen is for people to start liming themselves," Dr. Harvey says. "It would sure make a mess of the modelling process if some of the lakes we looked at had been limed by unknown people at unknown rates."

The work of Dr. Harvey and his students will continue well into next year. They'll return to the lakes where fish have been tagged, recapture the fish, note their condition, size and weight. Coupled with the hydrogen ion "budget" compiled by the Ministry of the Environment, the information will shed more light on the effects of acid rain.

The biggest enemy though, is time. Hearsay evidence indicates that some fish species have already disappeared from certain lakes. But unless it can be proven, that populations of existing species are falling in given lakes, the principles of science will not be satisfied. That takes time, time that may well be running out.

"There is just no way you can get time trend data in a short period," Dr. Harvey says. The challenge he and his team face is to find the proof that will force the United States to the bargaining table before all the fish are gone.

Fair set for weekend

appear at Saturday's grandstand show, and promise to keep country music fans entertained throughout the afternoon.

Activities at this year's Kimmount Fair get underway Friday evening, when the judges will make their decision in the Queen of the Fair contest. Entertainment and a dance will follow the judging of the queen and her court. The midway will also get underway Friday.

Saturday is the biggest day of the fair, with a full slate of events and attractions throughout the day and well into the evening.

The exhibit hall opens at 11 a.m. and will remain open throughout the day. A livestock show begins at 11:30. The parade, always one of the highlights of the fair, will wind its way to the fairgrounds beginning at 12:30.

People with a talent and the courage to display it can take part in an amateur program, which gets underway at 2 p.m. and precedes the Good Brothers.

Various livestock judging will go on throughout the afternoon, including horse judging in the ring.

Also featured both Saturday and Sunday will be a display of antique steam traction engines, including a steam powered sawmill and a steam shingle mill.

The centre of attention will shift to the heavy horses at 4:30 p.m., when a drawing contest will pit team against team as they strain to move the stone boat. The horse drawing contests always attract a large crowd, and some fine teams are expected to be on hand to provide keen competition this year.

Exhibits, booths and midway rides will be open throughout the afternoon and evening. Saturday's activities will wind up with a dance, beginning at 9 p.m.

Sunday, the fair opens with a pony show at 11 a.m. and the exhibit hall will reopen at 1 p.m. At 2 p.m. one of the fair's biggest crowd pleasers will get underway in front of the grandstand. By popular demand, organizers have once more decided to put on a car demolition derby, under the supervision of Trans Canada Hell Drivers. Speeds are slow, and the dangers are minimal, but the thrills and the spills are plentiful. Metal crunches, tires flatten and steam from broken radiators hisses into the air as drivers vie for cash prizes. Hundreds of people were on hand for last year's version of the demolition derby, and this year's event is expected to draw at least as well.

An amateur program will begin at 3 p.m., and the second half of the horse drawing competition, this time for light horse teams, will take place at 4 p.m.

All in all, there should be something for everyone at the Kimmount Fair this year. Admission is $2 for adults, 50 cents for public school children, with pre-schoolers getting in free.

The resulting explosion and fire completely destroyed the trailer.

In other mishaps around the county, an 18 year old Agincourt man was charged with driving left of centre following a two car crash on Highway 519 Thursday afternoon.

Police say Donald G. Young was southbound and driving left of centre when he met a northbound car driven by Wayne A. Moorehouse, 30, of Brampton. The resulting collision caused an estimated $2000 damage to Moorehouse's vehicle, while Young's car suffered an estimated $1800.

A 16 year old Harcourt youth escaped injury last Monday when the car he was driving went out of control and rolled over.

Police say James Rogers was southbound on Highway

648 when he apparently met a northbound vehicle near the centre of the road. Rogers went onto the west shoulder, and lost control of the car, which crossed the highway and rolled over in the east ditch, striking a fence.

A 49 year old Minden man suffered minor injuries last Wednesday, when the truck he was driving went out of control on the Bobcaygeon Road and struck a rock face.

David Lynas was northbound and rounding a corner when he met a southbound vehicle. Lynas pulled onto the shoulder to allow the oncoming vehicle more room. When he attempted to pull the vehicle back onto the road, Lynas lost control and hit a rock face on the west side of the road.

Damage to his 1968 truck was estimated at $1000.

An 18 year old Dorset man was charged with careless driving as a result of a single car crash on Highway 35 Friday.

Glen R. Nangle was northbound when he lost control on a left hand curve. The car fishtailed over the road, crossed the east shoulder and entered the ditch, where it rolled over and came to rest back on its wheels.

Damage to the car was estimated at $900.

Ham suggested that council make "a thorough review of the township road system."

"Both the total mileage and the type of mileage (one lane, gravel, two lane gravel, rural paved, suburban, etc.) would have a direct impact on the funding level," Ham said.

Council is expected to pursue the matter of maintenance money further.

The bottom line

Five years ago, only scientists and a few informed environmentalists knew it was there. It couldn't be seen or tasted, and so it went largely unnoticed. It had killed lakes in other areas of the world, of course, but they were far from here, and that made them seem of little consequence. Gradually however, word began to spread. Acid was falling from the sky each time it rained or snowed. It didn't burn anyone. It was too mild for that, but it built up on the land and in the water. It fell at the rate of 200 pounds per acre per year across much of Ontario, and over the past few decades its effects began to be felt. Fish began to die in certain lakes, acid was suspected, and people began to notice. Research went on, and still goes on into the phenomenon of acid rain, but today, there are few people who don't know it is there.

Knowing a problem exists is the first step to solving it, of course, and so on the matter of acid rain, we have at least made a start. But there is much that remains to be done. We know where it falls and how much acid it contains. We know where it comes from and we are beginning to know how and why it affects our lakes and the life that lives in them. What we don't know, however, is how to stop the rain. That is largely a political question, and as such, it is a question that demands the attention of ordinary Canadians, especially of those ordinary Canadians who live in areas like the Highlands, where tourism is essential to the future and where lakes are already beginning to die.

On a small scale, there is little that can be done. People have talked of liming lakes themselves to buffer the acid, but scientists doubt it would work on lakes whose bottoms are thick with sediment. It would also be extremely costly even if enough lime could be found to buffer the acid in a given lake.

That means simply that efforts should be directed towards seeking a political solution to the problem rather than towards physical, stop-gap measures that will not prevail against the onslaught of acid for long.

Canadian shield lakes will continue to suffer the effects of acid rain until tough laws are enacted that will put the problem in check. As taxpayers, Canadians must support research into the problem, and must push the government to seek a treaty with the United States that would severely limit sulphur dioxide and nitrous oxide emissions from power plants and industry.

Negotiations toward that treaty must begin soon. Time is clearly running out.

Right and wrong

Anson, Hindon and Minden council found itself under the gun last week when a petition from cottage owners on Twelve Mile Lake called on council to rescind By-law 79-11, a by-law that closed a portion of road passing through Hart Lodge to vehicular traffic. The petition claimed the by-law was passed illegally, and urged council to right the wrong by striking it from the books. That would mean the process of closing the road would have to be repeated, this time advertising the closure for a month in advance, to give ratepayers ample opportunity to object.

There can be no quarrel with the validity of the petitioners' argument. The by-law was passed without following to the letter, the requirements for such closures as set down in the Municipal Act. What must be called into question, however, is the ratepayers' motivation for submitting the petition.

The road in question passes between buildings on the Hart Lodge property, before emerging on the shoreline of Twelve Mile Lake. It is a narrow, twisting dirt surface, hardly ideal for driving. To take its place in providing access to the shoreline, a road was constructed on council's initiative and at a cost of $12,000. That road enters Highway 35 within a few hundred yards of the old access road, has a much better surface, and provides a much clearer view of oncoming traffic on Highway 35 than was afforded by the road through Hart Lodge. With that in mind, it seems incredible that the petitioners would cite inconvenience to cottagers as one of the reasons for calling for the rescinding of By-law 79-11. The argument that the new road is a few hundred yards longer than the closed road, and that it thus forces cottagers to waste energy by travelling a little farther to and from Highway 35 is simply absurd.

There can be no question that council acted in the best interests of ratepayers when it agreed to close the road to Hart Lodge to vehicular traffic. There can also be no question that the closure procedure did not follow the stipulations of the Municipal Act.

The petitioners are right if they were motivated by a desire to ensure that all municipal by-laws are passed according to the letter of the law. If, however, the petitioners intend to push for keeping the road through Hart Lodge open to vehicular traffic, they will simply add an unnecessary complexity to a situation that has been a source of turmoil for council and ratepayers in the area for a number of years.

The by-law should be rescinded, advertised and repassed without objections, and there the matter should end.

Loon Lake, August

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The tourist industry in Haliburton has been given a great deal of consideration over the past few months. In the past, it was assumed that tourism only existed in the summer months, with the arrival of the cottagers. It now seems that Haliburton has much to offer its visitors all year round. Of course, though, it is important to generate new ideas and create new projects to enhance our community, thereby making Haliburton even more attractive as a place to live or to visit.

A project, recently made public, has been going through its feasibility stages with the help of three Haliburton people. They have been assisted over the summertime by a large Student Works Grant from the Ontario government. The project I'm referring to is "Stonehenge".

I feel it is admirable that these people have become involved in a project geared to attract tourists. At the same time, I feel that such a project falls short of being relevant to the Haliburton region. The uniqueness of Stonehenge lies within the mystery that surrounds its construction and its ability to tell time.

I, myself, cannot understand what purpose a scale model of Stonehenge would serve, as far as attracting people to the area.

Although Stonehenge attracts thousands each year, travelling through England, this does not necessarily mean it will do the same for Haliburton.

The town of Wawa, Ontario, draws people with its "big bird" - the Canada Goose. Bracebridge delights thousands of children, along with their families, each year, with its Santa's Village. In the same respect, Wasaga Beach has its amusement park to offer to the people.

Does this mean that Haliburton should be doing all these things too?

Editor's Notebook

by Len Pizzev

The buzz of an outboard splits the misty air over Plastic Lake. Two men in an aluminum boat head for a set of white floats that bob gently on the lake's rippled surface about ten feet from shore. Both have several days stubble on their chins. They look tired. In the boat is a small plastic tub, two scales, a board with a ruler on it, a fish tagging gun, scores of tiny brown envelopes, a pair of tweezers, and a dog eared, water stained notebook.

They stop the boat between the floats and reach into the water. Ropes are pulled and in a moment, a small trap net made of plastic fly screen is hauled into the boat. A dozen or so fish, some not much more than an inch long, the biggest about seven inches, are carefully pulled from the net and flopped into the holding tub. The smallest fish are identified, counted and sent over the side by one man while the other jots the information in the notebook with a pencil. The larger fish are laid on the board, measured, and weighed. The tagging gun affixes a small plastic cylinder with a number on it to the fish by means of a plastic thread that passes through its back just below the dorsal fin. The number is noted in the book, along with the time and place of capture. Using the tweezers, the man who has done the weighing and tagging removes a scale from the fish and slips it into one of the envelopes. Information about the time and place of capture, and about the species is noted on the envelope. Then the fish is released. In a moment it has disappeared beneath the lake's greenish brown waters.

When the tub is once more empty, motor coughs into life, and the men head for another set of white floats fifty yards away.

It is a process they will repeat time after time this day, as they have for weeks past, and as they will for weeks to come. The nets must be emptied each day. It may take three hours, it may take six, depending on how many fish the trap has held.

Sometimes they work through the night. Other days they are on the lake by mid morning, and may not leave much before dark. And when the nets are not being emptied and fish tagged, there is paper work to be done. Their days off are few and far between.

The men are paid for the work they do, but it's not the pay that keeps them going. They are university science students, and they are on the trail of knowledge. It's a trail that few of us would like to follow, but these men are a different breed. Under the direction of Dr. Harold Harvey, one of the country's top fish biologists, the men are working on a study that should provide a clearer understanding of how acid rain is affecting the fish in Plastic Lake and some 19 other lakes scattered throughout the counties of Haliburton, Hastings and Muskoka.

That knowledge is vital. Coupled with information about increases in acidity in area lakes, and about the origins of acid rain "events", it should ultimately provide ammunition for a battle over air quality. A victory will mean tougher environmental laws and less acid rain. A defeat may well mean lakes devoid of fish, empty of loons, bottoms choked with a mat of decaying vegetation.

And so the search for knowledge goes on. It will take years before all the results are known. Scientists are cautious people, and their method leaves little room for doubt. If studies over the next year or two indicate that the number of fish in Plastic Lake is declining, and that their body chemistry is changing, acid rain will be suspected. But proof will be sought in the laboratory. There, changes in blood chemistry must be duplicated by acidified water under controlled conditions before acid rain will have been proven responsible.

The method leaves little room for doubt. The future, however, is less certain than science. And so the work goes on.

Feir Play

by Creighton Feir

Several people in the Village of Haliburton were quite perturbed last week when they noticed that the flag on the pole at the Cenotaph was not flying at half mast following the death of the Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker, former Prime Minister of Canada and possibly one of the greatest men to ever sit in parliament. We received several phone calls on the matter here at the Echo and several people commented that they couldn't understand why the flag was not at half mast at the Cenotaph when they noticed that the flag had been lowered at the Haliburton Post Office and other public buildings in the village, including flag poles in front of people's houses. In checking into the matter we found that the municipality, due to an oversight had forgotten to lower the flag, but on Monday due to a matter of courtesy the flag was at half mast. If this same thing ever happens again we hope that the members of the Legion will show some interest and look after the lowering of the flag.

A good friend of mine, Ken Hopkins of Toronto, was an office one day last week for a visit and we had a great chat and during the span of half an hour we talked about several interesting subjects. Ken who has a cottage near Haliburton has been coming here every summer for the past 12 years. Ken is retired now from the Company of Rapid, Grip and Batten and during the time that he worked with this firm he did on several occasions bring some of his fellow employees for an annual weekend at Kenmar Lodge when it was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Banton.

We have said it many times before and we still believe that if you want to draw a crowd to the event you are holding, then just hold a parade. In other words, the parade is the thing. Everyone loves to see a parade with plenty of floats and music. There is something about a parade that seems to thrill all of us and this is why the Haliburton Rotary, Minden Rotary, the Wilberforce Good Times and the Haliburton County Fair all stage good parades during the summer months. From time to time it is very easy for us to criticize these parades saying that there should be more floats, more bands, more of this and more of that. We must remember one thing and that is the fact that there's not too many things that are free anymore and it costs money to operate a parade. If you want to see more bands and more floats you are going to have to pay for them. This is why the Rotary Club of Haliburton asked for donations this year before the parade came along. We must remember that the more we give the better the parade will be.

Rev. D. W. Breen who is presently the Moderator of the Apostolic Church of Pentecost of Canada, with headquarters in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan will be speaking at the Haliburton Full Gospel Lighthouse on Wednesday, September 12 at 8:00 p.m. Rev. Breen has pastored several churches in this fellowship, the most recent being the People's Full Gospel Church in Surrey, British Columbia.

Don't forget that this Saturday and Sunday is the annual Kinnmount Fair. If you have never attended before, this should be the year. You haven't seen a fair until you have seen the Kinnmount Fair. They have a wonderful two-day program lined up so make plans now to attend.

With all of this vandalism we seem to have to put up with, not only here, but in all parts of Ontario, it seems to us that we must get more discipline put into our society. If things get much worse it may come to the time when vigilante groups will have to be formed to bring back law and order. This certainly has no reflection on the OPP who are doing a great job, but they can't be everywhere at the same time and they are going to need the cooperation of the general public. The destruction of public property and the stealing of flags and break-ins at local businesses and cottages seems to be the theme of the day.

We could be wrong but it was always our opinion that it was an offence to put posters on hydro poles. If this is the case, why are some people who come in from outside the county to put on dances on special weekends allowed to plaster these poles with their advertisements. They are not the only people who make a practice of this, there are others. We also understand that a local person doing business here, put up some signs on the hydro poles but they were all torn down. It is my opinion that signs should not be allowed on hydro or telephone poles. Why not put them up in store windows or place an ad in the local newspaper? It's time we used a little common sense in matters such as this.

Secondary school students are reminded that registration is now taking place at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. It started on Monday, August 27 and will conclude this Friday, August 31. The hours of registration are from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

School throughout the County of Haliburton will commence next Tuesday, September 4, so remember children are fast, so please, go slow. Drive with care.

It's been some time now since I have heard from Garnet Graham. He is well-known in Haliburton County and is now retired from selling insurance. He tells me he is a member of the Fenelon Falls council and this keeps him busy. He is at present holidaying in the area and rents Dave Stamp's cottage at Brady's Lake every August and spends most of his time fishing. In the driveway in front of his cottage he had a sign that read, Slow - Turtle Crossing, complete with a picture of a turtle with plums and cane. The other night some person or persons stole the sign. Garnet would love to have the sign back and asks that those who took it, would they please bring it back.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

Dixie Lee Opens in Minden

This weekend marks the end of our summer season and the beginning of a new era for Haliburton Highlands. The grand opening of the new Dixie Lee restaurant on the by-pass at Minden is a first in that it is the first major franchise operation to venture into our county. Proprietor Ken Fielding is very optimistic, as are we, that his foresight in going after this franchise will be good for him, and good for the community.

Conversations with visitors indicate that many are looking forward to the opening, and suggest that Minden will now become the place to eat on the way to and from the Highlands because of the considerable variety of establishments that are available. We expect many others with franchises in mind will be watching this new venture with considerable effort, and if it is as successful as anticipated we will see more activity of this nature.

Infir Centres New Hours

This summer there were three Tourist Information Centres operating throughout the county seven days a week. The Chamber office at Minden functions year round as the "Haliburton Highlands Welcome Centre" and will continue to do so. We will however be closing Sundays beginning this weekend. The Caboose in Haliburton Village has been very active this summer since it was moved adjacent to the "Rails' End Gallery". It is operated by the Municipality of Dysart and following this weekend will be open on weekends only until Thanksgiving. The Log School Info Centre on Highway 28, just east of McGilvray Road is operated by the Municipality of Cardiff and will be closed for the season after Labour Day.

The provincial government's "Experience '79" program supplied us with one student for each of these centres during the summer to augment the regular staff. This program is administered through the Central Ontario Travel Association, and is much appreciated by the Chamber and the municipalities that bear the balance of the expenses.

Fall Management Seminar

The Federal Business Development Bank has been making a number of extremely helpful workshop seminars available to members of our business community. This spring at a well attended bookkeeping seminar there was an overwhelming demand for a future one on personnel selection, motivation and management. That seminar is now to be held on Wednesday, September 15 at the PineStone Inn, and there is still room for more participants.

Any business man or woman with even as little as one employee should be anxious to spend one day acquiring knowledge on how to get the most out of their help. As a matter of fact a recent survey showed that the number one reason for staff leaving their jobs was conflict with their superiors. It is one of the most important factors in operating a business, particularly if your staff is dealing with the public.

Cost of the seminar is only $30.00 for the first participant, and $20.00 for each additional participant from the same business. This fee includes all necessary materials and lunch. To register for this seminar phone Alex McLeod at the F.B.D.B., collect, at 705-748-3241.

Annual Meeting

The Chamber's annual meeting has been set for Wednesday, October 10, and we will be providing details shortly on the time, place, and format. In the meantime it is time for any who feel they have something to contribute to our board of directors to contact either our office, or one of the existing directors and let us know. Any member in good standing of the Chamber is eligible to run for the board and we endeavour to invite representation from as many geographic areas and types of businesses as possible. Give us a call and we'll talk about it. It is your Chamber of Commerce - you should see to it that it functions the way you believe it should.

Kinmount Fair

That annual extravaganza known as the Kinmount Fair comes up this weekend. What better way to wind up the summer than with a visit to one of the finest agricultural fairs in Ontario. Saturday's grandstand show features the Juno Award winning Good Brothers and Sunday a car demolition derby involving the Trans Canada Hell Drivers is the big attraction. With exhibits, amateur contests, horse shows, horse draws, a dance and a huge parade, there is most definitely something for everyone at the fair. See you there.

Our thanks this week to Grenville Schrader of Oakville, Ontario for submitting this photo of a log jam on the Burnt River, approximately three miles south of Gelert. There are some young people in the picture who may be able to remember this day and this photo taken earlier between 1900 and 1915.

Bill Smiley

Well, here it is, Tuesday afternoon, time to write the column. I could have written it last Friday, or Sunday morning after church, or any day during the past three weeks of holidays. But I couldn't. I write my column on Tuesday afternoon, rush to the post office, plead with the clerk to squeeze it into the outgoing bag. Summer or winter, working or vacation.

If I try to write it on a Thursday evening, a Monday morning, there's a complete block. Blank paper, vacuum mind. Especially in summer, when I have enough time to crank out a couple of volumes of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

That's why the summer columns don't have one single, brilliant theme, lucidly expostulated, witty, striking a single, singing note in a muddled world. They usually come out as a kind of shot-gun effort. There are too many distractions.

A couple of promiscuous bluebirds have proliferated on our property. There are now five juveniles of the same species, shrieking bluebird imprecations from five different trees, driving out the song-birds of yesteryear.

This morning, we had one of those real, old-fashioned summer storms. Darkness at noon. The gods bowling in the heavens with tremendous balls that rumbled, crashed, and reverberated down the empty halls of the black sky. Bolts of lightning straight from Zeus that hit, you swear, twenty feet from your giant oak. Blinding rain, cars driving, lights on, as though they were fording the Ganges.

I love storms, ever since the one that put a pine tree-top through the roof of our cottage, when I was seven, and everybody calling, "Where's Billy?" and finding Billy standing against one of the remaining walls, scared speechless and grinning like an idiot. Or the one of the lakes, when several ships went down, and the captain was puking in his second-best hat, and every dish in the galley was smashed.

More distractions in summer. Rotten kids. Card from son Hugh in Paraguay. He'd previously written for five copies of his birth certificate, and copies of his student transcripts from U. of T. and Dalhousie, because he might be going to university in Paraguay or Toronto or India or Cuba. Card says, "Massage and English classes going well." What the hell does that mean?

Phone call from daughter, who's off to Moosonee to teach music to Indian kids. Doesn't know how to get there. Doesn't know how to get furniture shipped, what to take, why, what, where, how much? So guess who sorts all that out?

Animals, birds and fishes have the right idea. Teach the offspring to fend for themselves, kick them out, and have some more. I wonder how many grandfather whales, or bears, or eagles, are still solving problems for their fully-grown children, and baby-sitting their grandchildren?

And in summer, of course, the daily mail, though a welcome break in the monotony, is distracting. Pleas, amounting almost to demands, from relatives that you have to pay a visit, you promises last winter. They don't really want to see you, only make you listen to their problems, when all you want to listen to is the birds and the click of a five-iron as you set it up by the pin.

Not all bad. Nice letter from Jim Lamb of Nova Scotia, saying I'd helped inspire his new book Press Gang, and that I am his favorite columnist, along with Ted Reeve and Eric Nicol. Bless you, sir. Note from Bessie Doolan, 89, of Cerebral, Alta.: "I attribute the smiles and chuckles I receive from your column as a big aid to my longevity." And bless you, Bessie. Invite me to your hundredth, and we'll dance together and defy the fates, if you don't mind jiggling with a guy with an arthritic foot that goes whither it wants.

Two proofs of a photo of yours truly, from Mike Boule of the Milton, Canadian Champion who dropped in one day to take a picture. Thanks, Mike, but I think you got your negatives mixed up. Surely this is a photograph of American poet Robert Frost when he was 86.

Just kidding. You got me, wars and all. Every crease, every wrinkle, the warped nose with the scars on it, the bump on my lip from the car crash when a piece of the lip turned up missing during surgery, even the hairs in my ears, which you might have had the decency to trim before you shot.

Never mind, my wife likes it, probably because it makes me look old enough to be her father. But she insists I don't have those bags under my eyes and wrinkles on my forehead. I must have been squinting into the sun, I point out.

Anyway, it's the sort of

Report from Parliament

by Bill Scott M.P.

During the past few years our country has been witnessing more and more serious acts of vandalism everywhere, in the large cities and in the smallest hamlets. Today's vandalism is of the most wanton, destructive and vicious kind. There have always been pranks committed by rowdies, but the present phenomenon is quite unlike anything seen in the past, certainly in the small communities of Canada. The very serious property crimes that we are now seeing in the smallest villages and towns have usually been more characteristic of large urban centres. Today's vandalism is an unhappy aspect of the crime, violence and big-city malaise that has now spread across the country.

Vandalism is a serious crime against property, and all criminal acts in Canada fall under the Criminal Code. The two operative sections of the code are section 387, which deals with mischief and is actually the more serious of the two, and section 388, which deals with property damage when the alleged amount of damage doesn't exceed $50.

Under the Criminal Code the offence of mischief can be prosecuted by either indictment or summary conviction. Three sentences are possible when the proceedings are by indictment: if the mischief causes actual danger to human health, the accused is liable to imprisonment for life; if it involves public property, the maximum punishment is 14 years; and if the offence involves private property, the accused can be liable to imprisonment for five years.

In all cases of mischief, the prosecution can proceed by way of summary conviction, in which case the maximum punishment is imprisonment for six months, a fine of $500 or both. Damage under $50 caused to property is an offence punishable on summary conviction, and the maximum punishment is imprisonment for six months, a fine of $500 or both.

Vandalism is a crime usually committed in the dead of night. It is a deed of stealth, a vicious anti-social act that strikes at the decency, order and justness of law-abiding people. This hidden nature of vandalism is what makes it so troublesome. Vandals know who they are, and often they are known to others as well. But vandalism goes on because the crime is usually committed under cover of darkness and the vandals go about their everyday business the next day, unknown and unsuspected by others in the community.

Vandalism is indicative of a breakdown in the rules of right and wrong, crime and punishment, in the awareness and understanding that serious acts

At this point, we should be turning to what developed the Haliburton region in the beginning.

Following the example set by the Guild of Fine Arts, we should look towards developing an idea and resulting project that is unique only to Haliburton. Its background lies in the timber industry. It was a community opened up originally by the steam locomotive.

Possibly, the answer to the question, "What can we do, as a community, to attract more tourists," can be found in one of these areas.

Hopefully, before future ideas are considered and money is expended, we can select a project that involves both the people and the resource-filled land that we live in.

COUNTY ECHO SPORTS

Members of the Bethany Hunt Club gathered at the Fred Pickford farm south of Kimmount, Sunday, for their annual hunter trials. Here a competitor urges his mount over a jump on the course. The day also featured a fox hunt.

Sailing races, swimming races and canoeing contests were highlights of the day

Drag Lake property owners hold aquatic day

Drag Lake Property Owners recently held what organizers termed, "a very successful" aquatic day. Originally scheduled for Saturday August 18, inclement weather forced postponement to the following day. The sailing race got away at 10 a.m. with nine boats entered. The starting point was Ken Wiseman's dock in area three. The course was four miles triangular. Bill Booth picked up a breeze at the end of the first leg and soon was a half mile ahead, a lead which he held to the finish. Howard Chandler and Eddie Wiseman manned the buoys and checked off the boats as they went by.

Results in the albacore division were: 1st - Bill Booth, time 1:07.16; 2nd - Gord Wood, 1:16.30; 3rd - J. Appleby and Bill Wilson tied at 1:17.44.

Results in the small division were: 1st - Glen Numbers, 1:23.05; 2nd - Charlie Winder, 1:41.16. Timers were Mrs. Wood and Bill Darrell.

Swimming races were held at Harris's beach beginning at 2:30 p.m. Nearly 150 parents and children had assembled by starting time and Dave Laferle and Howard Chandler with Grant MacDonald recording got off to a flying start.

Results
Girls (6-8):
1st - Debbie Devent; 2nd - Kristen Booth; 3rd - Kathryn Parkinson.

Boys (6-8):
1st - David Wiseman; 2nd - Jimmie Hussey; 3rd - Glen Wilson.

Girls (11-12):
1st - Laurie McCutcheon; 2nd - Carrie Laferle; 3rd - Tricia Morrison.
Boys (11-12):
1st - Tom Mulford; 2nd - Ed Wiseman; 3rd - Craig Bowker.

Dawson homer beats LaRue as pitchers strike out 24 men

It was a battle of the pitchers last Wednesday night at the Dysart ball park as Curry Motors and LaRue squared off in the first game of a two out of three final in the men's recreational softball league.

A large crowd was on hand to watch LaRue's Sid Cooper and Curry's Pete Lymburner strike out 12 men apiece in one of the shortest and best games the league has seen all season.

Fans who have followed the teams all season were predicting that the series would be a close one, but few were expecting to see the kind of pitching performances that marked last Wednesday's game.

It was three up and three down for both teams in the first inning, with two strikeouts for both Cooper and Lymburner, and the other outs coming on flys.

Then outs continued unabated in the second inning until LaRue's Sid Cooper notched a double with two men away. Cooper was left on base, however, when Lymburner caught Jim Debenham with three strikes for the third out.

Cooper sent the next three Curry's batters back to the bench in short order and the game remained scoreless going into the third inning.

Lymburner struck out Bob Nichol, walked Mike Fearrey, then regained control and struck out Mulholland and Curry to retire LaRue's in the third. Curry's also went down in three straight.

The only action in the fourth came when an error sent LaRue's John Robinson around for a triple, but a third out saved the day for Curry's, who went down in quick succession after an error had sent Mike Carpenter to first.

In the fifth, LaRue's once more went down three straight, bringing Art Dawson to the plate first for Curry's. Dawson brought fans to their feet when he connected with a Sid Cooper pitch and drove the ball over the fence for his first home run of the year and what turned out to be the only run of the game.

With two men out in the sixth, a single by Bobby Johnson and an error on a hit by Scotty LaRue put two men on base for LaRue's, but they were unable to capitalize on the situation as Robinson hit a grounder into the third out.

An error also put Lymburner on second for Curry's but he too was left stranded when Steve Roberts hit a fly into the third out.

In the seventh, an error on a Sid Cooper single put him on second, but there was no further hitting, and the game ended with Curry's 1, LaRue 0.

Tournament held some surprises

Local women tie CKVR No Stars in game that broke all the rules

Surprises, upsets and some fine baseball kept a small crowd of softball fans happy over the weekend in Wilberforce at the third annual Wilberforce Minor Hockey Ladies Softball Tournament.

Teams from L'Amable, Apsley, Coboconk, Kimmount, Barry's Bay, Carnarvon, Paudash, Wilberforce and Bancroft turned up for some hard-fought games that culminated in A and B division finals Sunday afternoon.

Action got underway Saturday morning as Wilberforce met Barry's Bay in the first game of the opening round. The Wilberforce women were game, but just couldn't come up with hits as a powerful Barry's Bay squad rolled over the home team 22 - 1.

The second game of the day was a crowd pleaser, as strong teams from Coboconk and L'Amable slugged it out at the plate through seven close innings. In the end it was Coboconk edging out the L'Amable team 15 - 12.

A strong and experienced Carnarvon squad met Kimmount in the third game, and it proved to be no contest, as good pitching and solid hitting gave Carnarvon, last year's tournament winners, a relatively easy 18 - 6 win.

Fourth game of the day didn't count in the final standings, which meant that no one paid much attention to the number of rule infractions that took place on the field. The object was fun, pure and simple, as the Wilberforce ladies met their match in a game against an occasionally zany CKVR No Stars team. The score was secondary as balls were dropped, bases were run the wrong way and catchers sometimes distracted hitters by untying their shoe laces, but by the time it was over, both teams were judged to have sent runners across the plate twice, for a tie score.

Northern Homes takes Carnarvon
12 - 3 for 'A' win, L'Amable takes Apsley 14 - 5 for 'B' title

When the smoke had cleared, regular play got underway once again, as Paudash met Apsley for what turned out to be the best game of the tournament. It was a slug fest all the way, with neither team having the advantage either on the field or behind the plate. In the end however, it was Paudash squeaking in for the win by just a single run, 16 - 15.

In the opening game of the consolation round, L'Amable took on Wilberforce, and once again the Wilberforce ladies were unable to put it all together, going down to defeat 14 - 4.

First game of the championship or A side of the tournament saw the Northern Homes team from Bancroft meet Barry's Bay. Some top notch hitting and excellent fielding kept the score close all the way, giving the fans some of the best action of the weekend. At the end of seven innings it was Northern Homes coming up with a win over Barry's Bay 11 - 10.

In the second game of the A side, Carnarvon rolled over Paudash easily, winning 19 - 3.

In semi-finals on the A side, Coboconk met Northern Homes in what turned out to be a completely one sided affair. The Coboconk ladies, whom many people thought would be strong contenders for the championship, simply fell apart, both in the field and at the plate. By the time it was over, Northern Homes had driven in 23 runs, while Coboconk had managed to cross the plate only once.

The B division semi-finals had to be altered when Kimmount, who were to meet Apsley, did not show up. Tournament organizer Glen Storey said Monday that the team was apparently unable to find transportation to the Sunday game, and had to telephone to cancel their appearance.

Final game in the B division got underway Sunday afternoon with L'Amable meeting Apsley for the title. Apsley was never really in the game, as L'Amable rolled to a 14 - 5 victory, the Molson trophy and the $30 consolation championship prize.

The A division final pitted last year's winners, Carnarvon against the strong Northern Homes team. Carnarvon appeared to tighten up in the early innings, and a number of mistakes gave the Bancroft team the early advantage, which they never lost. Excellent fielding by the Bancroft squad held Carnarvon in check throughout the game, allowing Northern Homes to come in with a 12 - 3 win.

They took home a trophy donated by Molsons and a $70 prize.

Tournament organizer Storey said Monday that he was pleased with the attendance for Sunday's final games, but that overall, attendance at the tournament was disappointing, with few local people turning up to view the action.

Proceeds from the tournament will go to Wilberforce Minor Hockey.

THE ANNUAL MUNICIPAL ENUMERATION STARTS NEXT WEEK

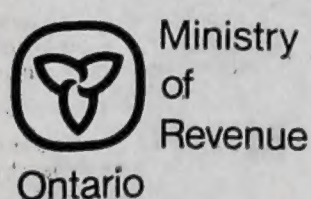

The annual municipal enumeration will begin on Tuesday, September 4, 1979. During this month, an enumerator, carrying a proper identification card, will call at your residence for a few minutes to check basic information required in determining:

- the allocation of education property taxes between the public and separate school systems;
- the distribution of provincial grants to local governments to help reduce local tax bills;
- the preparation of jurors' lists; and
- population information needed for other municipal programs.

The enumerator must record such information as the name, age, property status (e.g. owner or tenant), school support and residency of all members of the household.

When the enumerator visits, please check that the information on the Enumeration Notice is correct. If it is not, revise it and verify the changes.

If you are not home, a Notice will be left for you. If changes are necessary, please make them and mail the Enumeration Notice, as soon as possible, in the self addressed postage prepaid envelope accompanying the Notice. For any additional information, please contact the local assessment office.

Hockey Haven stresses the fundamentals

Pat Flannery works the youngsters hard, but they're better players when he's through Outside, the thermometer hovers at 80, but inside, the slap of pucks against boards is booming into the rafters. Breath rises in clouds from behind two dozen face masks. A whistle shrieks and the slash of skateblades cuts the chill air.

It is Friday morning at the Dysart arena, and Pat Flannery is at work.

"Skate, skate, skate," he yells. "Come on, SKATE!"

Today is the last day of a one week session and many of the youngsters on the ice this morning, Atom age players, are tired. You can only push them so hard, Flannery knows, before they'll give up on you, and on this day they need a lot of urging to keep going.

The whistle screams again and Flannery barks out the next drill before its echoes. Each boy has a puck, and he finds a spot on the boards. Fore hand, back hand, flick shot, slap shot, fore hand, back hand, flick shot, slap shot. A couple of players are having trouble finding a spot for the drill, and Flannery heads them in the right direction. Then he skates slowly to centre ice, where he watches each boy in turn, spotting mistakes, looking for things that need improvement.

'I honestly feel that two weeks takes too much out of the kids'

The noise is deafening as pucks thunder against the boards.

Flannery's whistle calls a halt, and in moments the youngsters are split into two groups for a passing and shooting drill. They've done it before, but they're slow this day, and Flannery is trying hard to pick up the pace.

"Go," he yells, flipping the puck to an onrushing player, who wheels around a cone, passes it to another youngster and changes lines. "Next. Come on, go, skate skate, come on, go, don't wait!"

The drills continue for the next 15 minutes, the slapping of sticks and the crashing of pucks punctuated by Flannery's staccato shouts.

"We give them a bit of a warmup and then they start their game," he shouts over the din. He skates to centre ice and blows the whistle one last time. In a minute he has the youngsters organized into two teams, but not without a problem or two along the way.

"We put them into lines on the first day," Flannery says. "But sometimes a kid will be sore, or he won't want to do it." It can take time to get it all sorted out.

Later, in the dressing room, Flannery sews up a seam on a track suit, and talks about his job as hockey director of Haliburton Hockey Haven boys camp.

The youngsters on the ice are in the final day of a two week program at the camp. Tomorrow they'll head home and a new group of youngsters will arrive for a one week session.

Flannery knows why he's had trouble getting the youngsters to work hard this morning.

"I honestly feel that two weeks takes too much out of the kids."

The hockey program puts them on the ice two and a half hours a day, six days a week, and though the players seldom complain, Flannery admits that it's a hard grind.

"A lot of kids will get more hockey here in a week than they'll get in a whole year back home."

Flannery has been hockey director of the camp for the past 13 years. He has seen a lot of youngsters come and go in that time. A few of them, a very few of them, have made it to the big time, a spot on an NHL or other pro team. The rest have gone back to play local hockey for fun rather than profit. All of them have left the camp better players though, and that's why hundreds of youngsters continue to turn up every summer.

Flannery and his teaching staff of pros and junior players work the youngsters hard. The assumption is that they have come to learn more about the game, so they're drilled in the fundamentals over and over again in each week or two week session.

"Any of the instructors who have been here and at other schools say that our program is probably the best," Flannery says. He set it up, and he's proud of it.

"We really cover the fundamentals."

Each youngster gets a half hour of skating instruction every day, followed by a 15 minute whole ice session. The rink is then split up into three stations, and the players spend 15 minutes at each. Basic skills are taught and reinforced, always under the watchful eye of an instructor. When all three stations have been covered, another whole ice session puts it all together.

'Our program is probably the best'

"It all works in progression," Flannery emphasizes. "They progress from one state to the next to the next."

Each drill has been plotted out in a book, and Flannery can tell you what a group of youngsters will do at the second station next Tuesday. In a two week program, except for the first day of the second week, no drill is identical.

A tough job: Junior Rangers work hard, but the reward is memories that can last a lifetime

It isn't the easiest way to spend a summer, and it certainly isn't the highest paying. The work is hard, the mosquitos can be fierce, and the pay is just $10 a day. But to the 24 girls who've spent the past eight weeks at Moose Lake Camp near Dorset, and to the more than 1900 other Ontario teenagers who took part in the Ministry of Natural Resources Junior Ranger program this year, the rewards of a summer working in the outdoors and living in a bush camp more than compensate for the drawbacks.

Begun in 1944, when 21 jobs were offered, the Junior Ranger program has grown steadily. This year, a total of 1,968 teenagers were employed at Moose Lake Camp and 72 similar camps across the province.

Basic requirements are simple enough. To qualify for the program, you must be 17 (and not 18 before August 31), a high school student, and willing to spend six days a week working at any number of demanding and sometimes boring physical jobs. Applications are considered on a first come first served basis, and despite the fact that there are less rugged ways to spend a summer, applicants outnumber jobs four to one.

The Moose Lake Camp is typical of Junior Ranger camps across the province. On land controlled by the Leslie Frost Centre, it is a collection of log and timber buildings overlooking a small lake, two rough, twisting bush road miles from Highway 35. The girls (about a third of Ontario's Junior Rangers are female), sleep in tents erected on wooden platforms and eat in a central dining hall. The camp has no electricity, no flush toilets, and no shortage of blackflies and mosquitoes. The only concessions to creature comfort are gravity fed showers, a wood fired sauna and a recreation hall (completed this spring) with ping pong tables and a card room.

But if the setting and the work sound rugged enough to set most people longing for the comforts of home, you'd never know it from the girls at Moose Lake. Every one of them grew to like the life they led this summer, and when they left at the end of last week for home, school and old friends, there wasn't a dry eye in the camp.

Veterans of the Junior Ranger program say it's always that way. A summer as a Junior Ranger turns out to be more than a job. It's an experience in living that inevitably leads to warm friendships, rich memories and emotional goodbyes.

Junior Rangers do a variety of work related to the day to day activities of the Ministry of Natural Resources. The work schedule is planned out weeks in advance, and crews are shifted from job to job to give them as much experience as possible, as well as to cut down on boredom. The girls at Moose Lake thinned and pruned young timber, cut, split and piled firewood, developed and improved campsites along canoe routes, cleared water access points, cut portages, cleared nature and snowmobile trails, helped out in the camp kitchen and in the visitor information booth and the Frost Centre, and did numerous other jobs around the area.

Besides working eight hours a day, the Junior Rangers were given an opportunity to learn about the natural world through lectures, films and slides presented by experts on the Frost Centre staff. They also got a chance to try canoeing, on a four-day trip into the back country, and flying, with a spin in a Ministry owned Otter.

In camp, the JR's are under the direction of a camp foreman, who takes responsibility for organizing work parties, transporting crews to and from work sites, supervising camp activities, and coping with the inevitable problems that develop when 24 seventeen year old girls live and work in close quarters. It's a job that requires a sense of humour, among other things, and it's a job that Linda Schmuck enjoys. An economics graduate from the University of Western Ontario, she was hired two years ago as a sub-foreman at the South River JR camp in the Bracebridge district. Last year she was a sub-foreman at Moose Lake, and this year she took on responsibility for the whole camp.

There are always things to be done, Linda says.

Besides organizing work crews and getting them to the job site, she keeps the camp supplied with food, runs errands in town, takes the girls to town at least once a week for a change of pace, works with other Frost Centre staff to set the work program for the JR's, and makes sure that all is running smoothly at Moose Lake.

Linda is a strong believer in the value of the JR program, and she thinks its value goes far beyond the physical work that's accomplished.

In the simplest sense, the eight weeks at Moose Lake are "a time away from home," Linda says, "and many of the girls have never been away from home before."

"To suddenly be out in a situation where you're living with 24 other people, in tents, with almost no privacy, that's a valuable experience."

"There are always problems when you get that many people together," Linda says. "Most of the girls are old enough to realize that if there are problems among themselves, they're the ones who have to work it out."

The girls quickly have to learn that they're not alone, that they have to consider other people when they live and work with them.

"For some of the girls, it's a first job, so they learn what it's like to be responsible to someone else."

Saturday at noon, we began another week of activities at Hyland Crest. Several residents boarded the bus and we made our way to Stanhope for the first annual Festival of Fun. We had an early lunch before leaving and arrived at Stanhope in time for the official opening. After the speeches were heard, we were served a lovely assortment of goodies and tea. Many of our residents were very pleased to chat with Mr. Charlie Fader who was the special guest of honour. Mr. Fader is Stanhope's oldest citizen. He is 99 years old and is now residing at Extensicare in Haliburton. Some of our people also watched part of the dog show. Those who went, enjoyed very much watching the performances of the many different breeds. In spite of the rainy weather, we had a very enjoyable time at the Stanhope Festival of Fun, and are looking forward to going next year.

Monday morning we had a good number of people at fun and fitness. Everyone was in good voice as we sang our good morning songs. We exercised to music, and played darts. Mrs. Deumo was the winner again with a 260 score. We ended the session with a game of kick the ball. Later, after lunch, the ladies went to the craft room to work on their projects. Tea and cake was served after a busy afternoon.

Monday evening was movie night at Hyland Crest. Several residents watched two very interesting films. The first called, Newfoundland Hospitality, was certainly named well. This picture introduced to the down to earth people who live there and we witnessed their hospitality and were told of their way of life. Because the sea stretches from Newfoundland to Ireland, of course it is their livelihood. This movie had some beautiful scenery, as we were taken on a tour of Canada's youngest island province.

'Come Golf With Me' was also a very interesting and picturesque film. We went on a golfer's holiday to the beautiful island of Bermuda. We saw the architecture, and exclaimed at the breathtaking colour of the aqua blue water. This film showed the natural beauty of Bermuda. The residents who watched, remarked that they enjoyed these two movies very much.

face of which people say, when they can't think of another single thing. "It looks lived-in," or, "There's a lot of character in it."

But it's been a good summer. Twice I've gone out to play golf and played with complete strangers who were worse duffers than I, despite their immaculate shirts and slacks, and fancy equipment.

Occasionally I go down to the dock, look at the $30,000 to $100,000 boats, and chortle when I think of what they'll be worth when gas rationing starts. And snicker and snicker when I drive up beside a Lincoln Continental in my 1972 Ford so rusty you can put your feet through the floorboards and pedal with them, for mobility.

Not quite like last summer, cruising the capitals of Europe, but fair-to-middlin', if the old lady would get off my back about falling through the back stoop every time she hangs out the washing.

Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. we were pleased to welcome Rev. Miller of the United Church in Minden to lead the service in the chapel.

After lunch, we had a game of bingo in the main lounge. Wednesday was a regular day with fun and fitness in the morning and crafts in the afternoon.

The Anglican Church Women of Minden brought a delicious lunch and served tea at the Thursday afternoon tea party. They served a lovely assortment of tea breads and cheese. We spent a most enjoyable afternoon, visiting with these ladies during the tea.

Friday morning a good number of people again boarded the bus and we were off on a picnic to Furnace Falls. We took with us a delicious variety of salads prepared by Mark Schell and his kitchen staff. We sat around the picnic table and helped ourselves. Being out in the fresh air gave everyone a hearty appetite. After lunch, we had several games of horseshoes, and were thoroughly enjoying the sun, when it disappeared and down came the rain. We got on the bus, and took the long way home via Tory Hill to Haliburton and home to Minden. On the way, we sang up a storm while the Hyland Crest Volunteer Band accompanied us on the gazooks. Even though the shower of rain shortened our stay at the beautiful little park by the river, the residents commented on how much they enjoyed their day out.

Birthdays celebrated this week were Eliza Chalmers, August 19, Charlotte Cooper, August 20, and Alma Rutler, August 21. All these people were presented with a birthday cake and wished many happy returns.

It has been a busy and a most enjoyable week. Being active is living and we do a lot of that here at Hyland Crest.

'The oldest kids are all very serious'

A few of the youngsters on the ice on this Friday have taken the easy way out, skating a little slower than they might have and dumping the puck without taking the time to set up properly for a shot. Mostly though, the players who come to Hockey Haven are serious about the game.

"They all like hockey, and they try to take advantage of different hockey situations. The oldest kids are all very serious." But Flannery admits that the game has changed. In general, the players he sees at Hockey Haven now are not as good as the youngsters who were coming to the camp years ago. It's not that they care less about the game than players did ten years ago. It's just that some fundamental changes have taken place in the amount of hockey youngsters play today, and in the kind of hockey they play.

Flannery is critical about the quality of both coaching and refereeing in minor hockey, especially in the Metro Toronto Hockey League. Coaches don't spend enough time stressing the basic skills that make up the game, as far as he's concerned.

"One of the main problems is that you teach a kid for two weeks here and he goes back and nothing is reinforced."

The majority of coaches in the minor hockey system emphasize passing. They teach youngsters to get the puck over the blue line and bang a shot away at the goal, Flannery says. As a result, players don't learn puck control and skating skills.

And, too, today's players get less ice time than youngsters did 10 years ago, not only because there are more teams to use available ice now, but because outdoor rinks are a thing of the past. It's a trend that Flannery laments. He remembers the days when a pick-up game was as close as the rink down the road, and when you could get in an hour of ice time on your way home from school.

Ask Flannery if he thinks the game should be toned down, if players up to Pee-wee age say, should be forced to play without body checking, and he'll tell you it would do nothing to improve the game. In fact, he teaches hitting at Hockey Haven, and he thinks other coaches should too. It's part of the game. But slashing, cross checking and charging are not allowed under the rules. If hockey is becoming rougher and players becoming poorer at the minor level, it's because rules are not being enforced by referees, Flannery says. The rule book is clear: high sticking, spearing, tripping, boarding and slashing are infractions.

'We used to get a lot more American kids than we do now'

Coaches, Flannery thinks, should be educated to teach the basics of the game, and that includes hitting.

To help a coach know a player's weakness as well as to help a player know what he needs to work on, each youngster at Hockey Haven gets a progress report. It points out what he has done right, and shows him the areas in which he is weak. The idea is that a player can take it back to his coach at home, and it will give the coach a guide to a player's needs. It's a good idea, but Flannery admits he's skeptical about how often coaches in minor hockey put that kind of information to use.

Why do youngsters come to a school like Hockey Haven? Are they pushed by parents who want to see their son play in the NHL one day? It's possible, but Flannery doesn't think that's the major reason they come.

"In a lot of cases," he says, "the kids want to come to a hockey school." In other cases, parents send their youngsters for the simple reason that they're playing the game, and it doesn't hurt to know more about it.

Hockey Haven opened 14 years ago, and for a few years, it experienced steady growth. At that time there were few hockey schools, and the demand for instruction far outstripped the supply of places to get it. Two hundred youngsters a week, a good many of them from the United States, would come then, and session ran for ten weeks.

But the market began to react to the demand, hockey schools opened in cities and towns across Canada and the U.S., and the emphasis shifted from live-in camps like Hockey Haven to day camps in urban areas.

"We used to get a lot more American kids than we do now," Flannery says. He thinks it's partially the result of the gas situation, but also cites the fact that there are now a large number of hockey schools in the U.S.

In the last year or two, however, the situation has begun to change again. Many of the schools have closed down, either because the youngsters don't come in sufficient numbers to pay the bills, or because the pros who started them lost interest. Enrolment at Hockey Haven is climbing slowly now, with an average of between 90 and 150 youngsters at each session. But the season last just seven weeks instead of ten.

The Alcohol and Drug Education Centre and the Metcalf Clinic. Two important new developments in health care for Eastern Ontario.

With the official opening, on August 20, of the Alcohol and Drug Education Centre and the Metcalf Clinic, Kingston Psychiatric Hospital will offer Eastern Ontario residents more comprehensive health care.

The Alcohol and Drug Education Centre will offer both day care and out-patient services seven days a week to help alcohol and drug abusers and their families. Employers will also be able to participate in specific programs on alcoholism and misuse of drugs.

The Metcalf Clinic is a community-oriented facility for people in need of psychiatric services who might previously have had to be hospitalized to obtain treatment. The Clinic also offers consultative and assessment advice to a variety of social and health agencies, as well as to the courts.

The Ontario Ministry of Health is pleased to have helped in the development of these important new facilities. Kingston Psychiatric Hospital will now be able to make available a wider range of health care services to the communities it serves.

Extendicare News by Dr. W.O. Anderson

Kinsmen elect National President

First thing Monday morning we had this tall lanky dieffenbachia with the plastic wrapped swelling at the top end of the leafless stem, to be finally cut down to size. The swelling was full of the original spaghnum moss and new roots of the plant, some quite thick. With everything in readiness the plastic was removed revealing a plant wound that seemed to be quite healthy. The stalk was cut through below any roots and the quite bushy top was immediately potted in a smaller pot a size that would comfortably accommodate the relatively sparse new roots, by alternately adding potting soil dry, then water, more soil and so on. Finally we found that much bracing was needed, but soon could be removed. We must realize that the survival of a plant so treated is in doubt unless it is done by a professional.

It would stretch our credibility if we were to claim our attendance in the Bancroft 1879-1979 centennial parade Saturday, August 18, riding in a 1931 Ford Model A convertible with the top down despite the rain left the centennial parade marshal Dr. Frank Wilson, wondering where he was. We rode by loaded with wheel chairs, handgrips and crutches, easy to go with 100 entries and 5 kilometres in length. It was a glorious parade containing Mr. Clarke Rollins local MPP, a calliope (a steam self propelled steam pipe organ), the renowned Haliburton pipe band in Scottish costume tartan, and regalia. Bancroft senior citizens, Martin Lum Co. of Harcourt with skidder and portable sawmill, Bancroft Public School, an 1879 horse drawn hearse from Bobcaygeon, Eddy Shack, Opp pipe band, Mr. Ben Corke, mayor of Belleville, a rare Stanley Steamer, on its own power. These were a few of the entries and only a few, those not mentioned being of equal importance in making this parade the best ever.

Jack Brown, an ex reeve told us that he is using steam to extract all of the oil of cedar from cedar boughs, but what is left has no use and is discarded. We wondered why at this point he didn't cut the steam then, for an ordinary heat distillation to produce carbon black and methyl alcohol.

Referring to the previously mentioned wheel chairs, we are reminded that Miss Karen Henderson, one of our faithful volunteer helpers, has a scheme she was telling us about to collect 50,000 cigarette boxes that she can redeem in exchange for a wheel chair to be donated to Extendicare - Haliburton. Thanks Karen. An air show that was to be held in the afternoon was rained out, but the next afternoon, Sunday, we were treated to some spectacular flying not only by manned aircraft but by mid-gut craft, remotely controlled. Two sky divers did their stunts from 8000 feet up, guiding their parachutes here and there at will without effort, landing precisely on target. Our whole stay at this centennial was marvelous.

Wednesday was a fishing trip to Silver Lake cottages on Eagle Lake, a resort owned jointly by Misses Ann Lee and Barbara Ramsay, a secretary for the northern staff of Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge Health Unit. Ann runs it nicely and treated us as V.I.P.s, taking us fishing on her catamaran, where as usual, all the big ones got away, even though we got some even out of the water, but not out of the water. While eating the barbecued hot dogs which we brought we had to admire the utter tranquility of this scene by the lake, as did the many other guests partaking of the same. Ann even gave us a splendid map of the county showing every place of interest, also decorated by a background of the Haliburton tartan. Without revealing who it is for, the Happy Gang would like to buy a bow tie of this material, in a standard bow tie pattern (not the clip-on kind). Crossing Ontario Hydro right-of-ways on the way back we noted there still were no goats or sheep grazing nor white clover planted.

Thursday afternoon was our monthly birthday party with Mrs. Vera Griffin, Jack Pollard, Mrs. Lottie Woodcock, Charlie Bowen, Mrs. Christine McCrae and Miss Shirley Frost, celebrating the indispensable Mrs. Marilyn Stouffer was the mistress of ceremonies, Ms. Sheila Elston pianist, and our Charles Plewman played the harmonica as accompaniment to the singing of the old familiar. Finally the "Happy Birthday to You", the cake, tea, coffee or juices. These are very happy and impressionable occasions.

In the evenings Mrs. Pat Burk bussed us to Camp Gay Venture where with courtesy tickets we were invited to see the theatrical troupe, Driftwood Valley and Wits End, present "Oklahoma". It was superb performance and ended with the star of stars, The Bride forever and ever. We did not learn her name or place any name we heard so we call her Gertrude, no doubt wrong. She came to us prettily coiffed with the utmost beauty and charm and thanked us for coming. Can you beat that? No one told us how many girls there are there but without count we guess at least 150. Thank you young ladies of Gay Venture Camp.

Pastor Mervin Kurtz was our spiritual leader for our Friday morning devotional period, his wife Pam was the pianist. This charming couple sang a duet, "There is only one life", impressing us with their great devotion. The theme, "The robber of all spiritual life is fear" and if we ask Jesus to take away that fear he has promised he will do so. A snack of goodies, tea or coffee served by our gracious Mary Currah followed while we enjoyed the company of Pastor and Mrs. Kurtz.

We are indebted to Mrs. Irene Pollard (Jack's wife) for a handsome donation to our gallivanting fund. Thanks Irene and remember we will be thinking of you as we gallivant.

The movies this week were interesting. 1. "In Beaver Valley": this is a valley in British Columbia where the beaver made it possible for nature to emerge in splendour. 2. A Laurel and Hardy film in which these two comedians found themselves in the French Foreign Legion. 3. "Winter of the Witch": a bedtime story describing the best way to deal with witches if they bother you.

The Saturday evening CBC radio show "anthology" was allowed to be dirty and has caused us some concern. The last of Canada's literary gems has gone forever. Some dirty person in the CBC hierarchy has used privileged clout to do this and should be replaced, but it is too late to save Canada's literature.

Lieut. Ron Mailman of the Haliburton Salvation Army, with his guitar and his officers, Mrs. Lillian Hague and Mrs. Amelia Sibley, and two visiting officers from Gravenhurst, Mary Ann Begin and Cindy Thompson, paid an unscheduled visit with us to sing several happy sacred hymns. Thank you very much for the kind courtesy.

John Green, 33, of Drayton, Ontario was elected the 59th National President of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs during the organization's annual convention held in Kitchener last week.

Green succeeds the Honorable Leonard Simms, Speaker of the House of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador, as chief elected officer of this country's largest young men's service organization which has over 40,000 members and auxiliary members in 1,500 clubs coast to coast.

Green has been a member of The Kinsmen Club of Drayton for 11 years. He has served his local area as club president, deputy governor and governor.

He has been active in local sports: baseball, hockey, football, basketball and curling. He is a past president of the Drayton Minor Hockey Association, has been the chairman of the Drayton Parks Board for four years, seven years on the Palmerston and District Hospital Board with five years as Finance Chairman. He was on the Drayton Town Council for two years.

Green is employed by Borg Textiles, where he is Production Supervisor.

He is married to the former Barbara Robertson. The Greens have two daughters, Barbie Joe, 9, and Robyn, 1. Following his election as National President today.

Green stated that he would encourage further expansion and thus the ability of the association to provide greater service to the communities it serves.

During the past twelve months, Kinsmen provided over 43 millions of dollars in service in Canadian communities, it was announced at the Kitchener convention.

Owner wants agreement

The owner of a Minden funeral home wants a written agreement with council that he hopes will silence rumours that the municipality has been planning his parking lot.

Gord Monk told Anson, Hinton and Minden council last Wednesday that he was "sick and tired of listening to the beefing about it," (the alleged plowing).

In fact, council does not plow the funeral home lot, but has had a long standing agreement to deposit on the property, snow removed from the bridge over the Gull River. "It's been a gentleman's agreement," Monk said, adding that he felt the time had come for the agreement to be set down in writing in an effort to silence the criticism. Council agreed to draft the written agreement.

Beware of letter, OPP are urging area citizens

The Ontario Provincial Police are urging people to be on the lookout for a chain letter scheme that promises huge returns for a $100 investment.

The OPP anti-gambling squad is conducting an investigation into the chain letter scheme. Police say the purchaser of one of these letters is led to believe that by investing $100, he or she can reap a return of $204,000.

Police say the scheme is unlawful, and any person with knowledge of the letter or participating in it is requested to contact the local OPP detachment and leave their name, address and phone number.

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

The people who best know how to enjoy themselves are the senior citizens. Their trips are well planned for excellent entertainment. Their latest bus trip took them to Peterborough for a cruise on the Trent Canal. They boarded a single deck boat and began a most interesting trip.

Accompanied by a well-informed guide who provided fascinating detail about the lift locks, they learned that it takes but 90 seconds to make the 65 foot drop in water level. The canal, originally intended to transport grain, was used for this purpose until rail transportation proved more effective. At the present time its principle use is for pleasure craft. The university buildings were pointed out as was the giant waterfall that is said to be the highest in the country and that is made colourful at night with lights representing the seasons. The day was fine, pleasant and sunny. On the way home a stop was made for dinner at the Ponderosa. Everyone arrived home in good time having enjoyed a memorable experience. This Tuesday was slated for a corn roast at Paudash Lake. Let us hope that good weather conditions prevailed.

Sally and Jake Mather have just returned from their vacation in New Brunswick. They had a most enjoyable time and were able to visit with relatives whom they had not seen for many years. They travelled as far as Peggy's Cove and gathered enough pleasant memories to last them for another year.

At the Legion hall a happy evening was had by all who attended the celebration of Lucille and Walter Klapow on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary. Quite an achievement in this day and age. A draw took place for the outdoor barbecue that was being raffled and the lucky winner was Howard Anderson of Tory Hill.

A nice thing about summer is that many former residents choose this time to revisit the neighbourhood. Jim Miller arrived a couple of weeks ago looking very fit. A year ago when he pulled up roots and headed west with his family to make a new life in Alberta, people wondered if it was a wise move. Jim has found a good life. He looked very smart in his western regalia of leather boots, stetson hat and belt decorated with horse's head. He spoke about having a good job and a nice home. Every member of the family has a riding horse. It is good to know that all are happy and have found good new neighbours.

Another welcome visitor was Mrs. Gertrude Miller who looked very well and was pleased to see former acquaintances and neighbours. Mrs. Miller was one of the first nurses at the Red Cross Outpost in Wilberforce and she has been able to write about early experiences and unusual happenings of former days. Her book has yet to be published but it has great promise and we are hoping to have it on your library shelf one of these days.

The boys choir from the church of St. John the Baptist, Norway of Toronto are having their customary holiday at Lake Wilberforce. On Sunday they delighted the congregation of St. Margaret's with their well-trained voices. Under the direction of choir master and organist Mr. Reid, they gave voice to three selections and filled the church with harmony. The Rev. Trevor Denny took the service during an exchange with Canon Moore Smith.

The annual baseball tournament was held at the Wilberforce baseball field. This event was to raise funds for the minor hockey club.

Good weather prevailed and some fine games were presented. Teams competing were from Bancroft, Carnarvon, Kilmount, Coboconk, Barry's Bay, Paudash, Apsley, Cardiff, L'Amable, Wilberforce. The B section was won by L'Amable with Bancroft winning in the A division.

There will be a Marathon Canoe Workshop on September 2 at the Coby Lion's Park. The workshop is sponsored by the Ontario Marathon Canoe and Racing Association. Bring your own equipment or come yourself. All ages are welcome. For further information contact Lorne Weaver at 705-454-3692 or Ray Healey at 705-359-1221. Also coming up is the Ontario Provincial Meet at Coboconk on the 9th of September, at the Lion's Park. The top paddlers with six teams from each class will participate. There are classes for Pro class, Advanced Amateur, Amateur, Mixed and Junior classes. Canoe racing is becoming more and more popular and is a great sport if you are of a fearless nature and not afraid of water. If you are a canoe enthusiast here is a great way to get in some good competition and win some prizes.

Speaking of canoe races - Dale Weaver is at Mt. Laurier, Quebec, this weekend, competing in a canoe race there.

Mrs. Irene Osborne, of Finedon, Northamptonshire, England (in the Midlands) has returned home after a nice long vacation with her sister, Gwen Rutter.

Rev. and Mrs. B. Cross spent last week in Fredrickton, New Brunswick, where they attended the wedding of Linda Killcollins to Tom Jeffries in a ceremony in the United Pentecostal Church in Fredrickton. The newlyweds will return to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan where they will live. The Cross's also spent some time with their youngest son, Burrell and family at Fredrickton. Burrell and Bonnie celebrated their seventh wedding anniversary, Sunday, August 19 so were happy to have mom and dad with them.

are entertaining one afternoon. They will be singing on Friday, September 21 at 4 p.m. so keep that date in mind and hope to see you there!

I noticed Lois Batty's name in the list of prize winners at the Minden Fair. Lois showed her calf and took home prizes for her efforts. Congratulations, Lois. I know you work hard and are keen on competitions. Lots of luck on the upcoming fairs because I'm sure you will bring home more ribbons for your entries. Although it's been a lovely summer, I do not believe there have been as many houseboats anchored at the docks overnight as in previous years. Perhaps the gas price increase and cost of going through the locks have had some bearing on this.

Adam Lutz is not seen around the gas bar these days, at the corners of Hwy 15 and 48. Adam must be off his feet for some weeks yet as he is not at all well. Get well soon!

Mrs. Eleanor Licop of South Porcupine is visiting her parents, Gertie and Dave Crichton

On August 17, all members of council met in the township office and then left for an on-site inspection of the proposed Talbot Lake subdivision on Lot 1, Concession 8, Laxton. Afterwards the men returned to the office to resume the meeting. The developer of Talbot Lake subdivision is to be contacted to request a meeting to discuss drainage problems and increased public water frontage. The building inspector (B. Bradamore) was appointed administrator of Home Renewal Program with the administration funding on a 7 percent - 3 percent basis with the municipality receiving 3 percent. The responsibilities of the municipality in the Home Renewal Program will be searching title of property, registering lien on title, loan approvals and discharge of liens. By-law #15-79, to regulate the proceedings of the council of the Corporation of the Townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford was read a first and second time.

Attention all girls who are 6 to 15 years of age! If you are interested in becoming a Brownie, Guide or Pathfinder, registration will be on Monday, September 10 from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. in Coboconk Lions Community Hall. New leaders and helpers to assist with the training of these girls would be most welcome also.

Anyone who is still without the new Lindsay-Peterborough and district Bell telephone book for this area should ask Mrs. Rotha Bryant at the Norland Post Office about obtaining one. The books were handed out by the post office earlier in July but your name could have been overlooked to receive one. There are still a few of these new telephone directories available so if you haven't received one, plan to pick up yours soon.

Norland Women's Institute held a meeting in the W.I. hall on Monday, August 20. Following the opening ode, Mary Stewart Collect and the Lord's Prayer, the secretary read the previous meeting's minutes and the treasurer's report and correspondence. Program for the evening was agriculture and Canadian industry with conveners Dorothy Brown and Eleanor Crane. An article on the cheese shortage because of Ontario Milk Marketing Board quota restrictions was read by Dorothy Brown. Also a report on fluoride pollution poisoning from the U.S. Reynolds Aluminum Company affecting the health of people on Cornwall Island was read and discussed. Plans were finalized for the 50th anniversary of the Norland Women's Institute meeting on Tuesday, September 11 that will take place in the Norland United Church hall. The ten other branches of the Victoria East Women's Institute have been invited to this special meeting as well as area executive members and former Norland Women's Institute members.

On Wednesday evening, August 21, Norland Horticultural Society members assembled in the community hall for a short business meeting, followed by a presentation of slides by Dr. F. Weir of Coboconk that was open to everyone to view. An attractive crocheted afghan has been donated by Sharon Greer to raise money for the society and draw tickets at 35 cents each or three for $1.00 are available from secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Rotha Bryant. The draw will be made on Monday, September 3. The annual meeting of District 4, which includes Norland, will be on Saturday, October 20 in Port Hope. Garden Club of Toronto will hold their bi-annual flower show in the C.N.E. coliseum, Toronto on February 27, 28, 29, March 1 and 2. Norland members were invited to attend Omeenee and District Horticultural Society's meeting on Monday, September 17 at 8:00 p.m. in Lady Eaton School, James Street, Omeenee, when their special guest speaker will be Miss Martha Veldheris of Dundas. Following business and announcements, Dr. Weir showed slides of Holland, England and Norway especially those displaying the flowers and gardens of these countries. He had excellent shots of the many tulip beds in Holland, the formal and casual gardens of England and the rustic and wild flowers of the mountainous country of Norway. All who were in attendance agreed that the presentation and commentary were most interesting and educational.

Former Norland resident Colin (Buck) LeCraw is gravely ill in Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto. He would be pleased I'm sure, to hear from his many friends - his address is Floor D6, Room 6522, Sunnybrook Hospital. Do take that extra minute to drop him a line or send a card to let him know that your thoughts are with him. Time can hang very heavy in a hospital bed.

Kenata Grill that has been open six days a week during the summer months will be open only weekends (Friday afternoon to Sunday night) after Labour Day. These hours will be effective until about mid-September when proprietress, Mrs. Greta Smith leaves for a month's holiday to visit her sister and family in British Columbia. It is the last week of plays for the Kawartha Summer Theatre at the Academy Theatre, Lindsay. The play "Up the Creek" is being performed from August 28 to September 1. This is a musical show, traditional with closing the summer theatre performances. This one is a revue about all the songs of the past few decades which depended on lakes, streams and rivers to offer their message of love and romance. Evening performances that require a reservation, are at 8:30 p.m., admission $5.00 or Wednesday matinee, no reservation needed, at 2:00 p.m. costing $3.50. Children under 15, all performances are $2.00. For reservations call 324-9111.

Thirty-two artists from all across Ontario, attending the "Gathering of Makers" conference in Haliburton were hosted by several members of the Guild at a pot luck supper held at the Rails' End Gallery on Monday evening. This was the first time this group had met together and it proved to be a very rewarding experience.

Beginning Tuesday, August 28 and continuing until Saturday, September 22, we will have on display a collection of Eskimo sculptures, prints, clothing, dolls, rugs, etc. in our Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton. This is the collection of Mr. Ray Goulet now residing in our area and operating a restaurant at Haliburton Lake. Mr. Goulet has been a director of sports and recreation in Yellowknife for the past ten years and has travelled extensively throughout the world. We are very pleased to bring this exhibition to you and hope that everyone in Haliburton County will take advantage of the opportunity to see this magnificent show. If you haven't seen the Gallery yet we encourage you to come in while this show is here.

Also on display will be a collection of flags, sports lapel pins. This has been on display for the Queen and the Prince of Wales.

Only CGA offers you options

CGA is the professional designation you should know about. The letters CGA after your name identify an individual with sound knowledge, ability, drive and initiative. After all, the Certified General Accountants program is one of the most demanding and yet most flexible of its kind.

The CGA program is the only one in the accounting profession which offers you areas of specialization in your final year - Financial Management, Taxation, Public Auditing, Public Administration (Government), or for those who don't wish to specialize, a General Option.

A high degree of flexibility is offered through the CGA program, since you can study what you need when you need it, you can write an examination after the completion of each course, and you can learn while still earning a living in related employment. Initially, you have the choice of three entry points a year in which to join the program - September, November or March.

As you can see, CGA gives you wide freedom of career choice, which will put you on the road to true professional success.

CGAs are the people in demand. CGAs are the men and women in line for top-level positions. If you are ambitious and want to realize your full career potential, then contact The Certified General Accountants Association of Ontario.

Chatting with Irene by Irene Moore

There is a quotation by Binney that "Nature is the most thrifty thing in the world, she never wastes anything." I do not agree with that for this month she sure has wasted a lot of rain and been very stingy with the sun.

Rain is the one thing that we didn't need so much of but sure could have stood more sunny days. It never fails that that once school starts again, it is usually lovely weather. Well this year we will just have to wait and see, but hopefully it will be true!

There are only four birthdays at Hyland Crest Home for September. They are: Martha Jane Kernohan, 5th; Elizabeth Smithurst, 8th; Isabella Eastman, 9th; Frank Billings, 12th.

The Women's Institute are planning a fall colour tour bus trip for September 26. Will W.I. "members" please try to have their names in to the treasurer by September 15, so that she will then know how many members wish to go, thus giving others a chance to take the trip as well. More details later.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cox visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Arbutnot in Toronto over the weekend and also attended the Toronto Exhibition.

Recycle it!

by Jane Selbie

If you are busy canning fruit and tomatoes for a winter supply you will appreciate the tip Mrs. Jack White of RR #5, Lindsay sends along. The jars from Miracle Whip (mayonnaise) are the right size to fit mason lids and tops.

Mrs. Lila Mitchell of Gelert reminds us that the foil wrap from butter or margarine makes good wrap for baked potatoes.

Mrs. Ada Handley of Burnt River sends an interesting recycling project to try. It turns old zippers into unusual and attractive jewelry.

Materials: discarded zippers, scraps of felt, beads, buttons, household cement, jewelry findings (clasps, earring and pin backs, or necklace lace for pendants).

Directions: 1. Cut off the tab end of zipper. 2. Clean zipper thoroughly and polish. 3. Cut off the tape material next to zipper teeth as closely as possible. 4. Press felt (hat felt is suggested), using a felt colour to match the bead chosen for the centre of your work. The shape of the bead determines the shape of your finished piece. Cut the felt large, it can be cut down later. 5. Cement your bead in the centre of the felt then spread the glue on the felt and tape side of the zipper. Wrap the zipper teeth very snugly around the bead or button. When the desired size is achieved hold and press until the glue sets. 6. Place a pin close to the zipper end to keep from spreading. Set aside to dry. Once dry, cut the felt close to the outer edge. 7. Glue on the appropriate finding. If you wish, buff and coat with a layer of clear nail polish.

A new contest is running. A $15. prize will be offered for the best suggestion sent during August, September and October. The slate is clean, no entries from the last contest are eligible. Send to Recycle It!, Haliburton Echo, Box 360, Haliburton, K0M 1S0.

Junior Farmers to spend week at Bark Lake camp

Some 100 young people from across rural Ontario will never be the same after a week in the Haliburton Highlands next week. Each one of them will leave this area a better leader.

The 100 are members of the Junior Farmers Association of Ontario and will attend the provincial leadership camp at Bark Lake September 2 through September 9.

Purpose of the gathering is to develop the leadership skills of rural youth, according to Rod Stork, supervisor of Youth Extension, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

"Those selected to attend have demonstrated above average leadership and competitive qualities in local Junior Farmers clubs," says Stork. "The provincial camp will develop these qualities further."

Delegates will participate in discussion groups, sports activities, public speaking and recreational activities.

They will come from across Ontario - each county or district will send one or two delegates to the Bark Lake Leadership Camp.

The Junior Farmers Association is an organization for rural youth age 18 to 30. The program, sponsored by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, has more than 8000 members.

"Membership in Junior Farmers is an excellent way for a young person from a rural background to participate in a wide range of recreational and educational activities," says Stork.

Carnarvon News

by Blanche Windsor

Sympathy is extended to the relatives of Mrs. Mabel Sawyer, who passed away during the weekend.

Mr. Clayton McKay is home the second time from Peterborough, and is in very poor health. His daughter and her husband from Toronto are spending the weekend with him.

Mr. Alex Hewitt spent a couple of days in the hospital last week.

We are pleased to see Mrs. Stuit home from the hospital. Her sister, Mrs. Stringer spent a couple of days with her. Her daughter, Ruth Gorrie, is home again after a week's rest in Ancaster, following a severe case of flu. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harrison are holidaying in Carnarvon. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Johnson of Boca Raton, Florida, have been renewing old acquaintances here.

Nice to see Mrs. Muriel Brown of Brantford at church on Sunday.

Mrs. Mary McPhail, who has been here for several weeks, owing to her brother's illness, is returning to her home in western Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Leckie and three children of Sarnia have been spending a few days with Mrs. Muriel Hewitt.

Before the service on Sunday the three grandchildren, Susan, Mary and Jean, of Mr. and Mrs. G. Allcorn, entertained the congregation with a trio and solo. Later in the service, two of the girls played their flutes. They were accompanied on the guitar by Mr. Peter Gilbert.

Garth and Helen Windsor are spending a few days at their cottage on Big Hawk Lake. It was one of the first cottages on the lake and five generations have enjoyed it. Everyone has enjoyed the echoes from the high rock across the bay, the call of the loons and of seeing flotillas of canoes going by from different camps. Going up late in the fall one year, we found written on the corner of the cottage, "shot a deer from this vantage point."

Modern hand crafted log/timber houses make more sense now than ever.

THEY ARE WARMER IN WINTER AND THEY ARE COOLER IN SUMMER!!

This is a fact. Research scientists at The Eastern Forest Products Labs in Ottawa have proven that logs increase in 'R' value by as much as 50% when the temperature drops in the winter. A 12" thick log or timber is cooler in the summer and may be as warm as R-18 in February.

THEY ARE STRONGER AND BETTER BUILT. A REAL INVESTMENT.

Nothing is 'toe-nailed' or 'tacked' together. We are talking about solid logs and timbers with handcrafted joinery that is typical of fine cabinet work and that insures building integrity no other form of construction can match.

THEY ARE ENERGY DEFENSIVE AND LABOUR INTENSIVE.

Hand crafted log and timber homes do not rely on expensive, energy demanding machinery and factory processes. As little as $200.00 worth of fossil fuels may be needed to build your log house or cottage of 1500 sq. ft. when local renewable forest resources are used. The bulk of the energy requirement is in the form of individual crafts persons utilizing hand tools to custom build your home or cottage with a personal 'statement' no factory of 'prefab' can match.

THEY ARE NO MORE EXPENSIVE THAN COMPARABLE CUSTOM BUILT HOMES & COTTAGES.

That's right, and we'd like to prove it to you. Can we quote you?

Write to us or phone - and find out how your hand crafted home, cottage, sauna, may be pre-built at our construction site this winter and delivered to your foundations next spring or summer.

HALIBURTON IGA MARKET

Haliburton Highlights

by Creighton Feir

Our congratulations to the Haliburton Ladies Softball Team who went all out to make sure that the softball tournament they sponsored recently in Haliburton was a success. The hard work that they put into this tournament paid off with excellent softball, large crowds and just all around good fun for two days. I had the opportunity to watch the final game on Sunday and was really surprised at the calibre of softball that was put on display by these two finalists. We look forward to another exciting tournament come next August.

This coming Saturday and Sunday, many people from Haliburton will be making their way to Kinnmount for the annual Kinnmount Fair which in the opinion of many, is one of the best small town fairs in Ontario. Many people have told me that they would sooner attend the fair at Kinnmount than go to the Lindsay Central Exhibition. If you have never had the opportunity to visit the Kinnmount Fair you should go this year and take in the big event. You will be glad you did. The Kinnmount Fair Board are to be congratulated on putting up a great show year after year.

It seems a shame that the scoreboard that is located at the Haliburton Ball Park is not used at local ball games. It seems that every time they leave the numbers up that tell the score on the board some person or persons steal them. It might be an idea to leave them in the municipal hall following each game. The way that it is at the present time, those who attend the ball games have a hard time keeping track of the score. The scoreboard is up there so let's see that in the future it's put to good use. What a difference it would make if one could look up after each inning and see what the score is. At the present time the only way to find out what team is in the lead is to go and ask some official.

Dr. John Morrison, a fellow Rotarian and secretary for the Rotary Club of Pickering, was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Haliburton. He spoke on his vocation for the past twenty years with the Ontario government. John is presently the senior vice-chairman of the Ontario Board of Parole. His talk was most informative not to mention the numerous jokes he had to tell together with his personal opinion with respect to the mental attitude of the various criminal types. A most interesting and different evening and most certainly an area of concern to us all. He was introduced by Rae Stinson, his neighbour of 23 years at Depot Bay, Drag Lake. He was thanked by Bill Emmerson.

Bill Murray who had the lead role in Meatballs, the movie that was filmed in Haliburton, is filming again. He joins Chevy Chase, Rodney Dangerfield and Ted Knight in Caddyshack, a movie comedy set against the background of a rich suburban country club.

Bill and Lois Freeman of Milton spent the weekend visiting their niece Karen Dunsmore and her husband Don, and sons of Saskatchewan, last weekend. Bill and Lois visited with friends also while here. The Freemans were residents of Haliburton some years ago, so like to get to the Highlands every chance they get.

OPP report

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report the following activity for the week of August 20 through August 26. During this period the staff investigated 11 reportable and two non-reportable motor vehicle collisions, as well as some 96 general occurrences.

Four break-ins were reported, 10 compassionate messages delivered, 16 persons charged with liquor violations, seven persons charged with boating violations, and one person charged with impaired driving.

seven minutes while an out-of-town van unloaded some good to a local merchant. Cars were lined from as far back as the traffic lights to about halfway down the street. At the present time there just doesn't seem to be any answer to this problem. We have to admit that you can't expect a man to lug heavy merchandise a long distance.

Work is underway on the new park on Head Lake in the Village of Haliburton and trucks and equipment are moving a great deal of earth everyday levelling off the grounds. Everyone seems to be very excited about this new project and are waiting for the day when it will be completed.

"They say that it takes two kinds of people to make the world - poets to write about the glories of autumn and the rest of us to rake them."

Sometimes we all seem to get a little annoyed when trucks who are unloading on the main street of Haliburton hold up traffic. Recently I was in one of these traffic tie-ups and had to wait for about

Church marks 25th anniversary

On July 29, the Haliburton Lake Community Church celebrated its 25th anniversary. Rev. J. Smith of Whitby, conducted the worship service just as he did 25 years ago. Special music was provided by Heather McKinsey and Melissa Holt. At 5 p.m. the church members enjoyed a pot luck supper, convened by the chairman of the church committee, assisted by Mrs. R. Jones and Mr. C. Howe. Courtesy remarks were made by Mrs. J. R. Cyduman. This concluded the 25th anniversary, a memorable event for those who were privileged to attend.

Dorset News

by Phyllis Briscoe

"It is better to suffer wrong than to do it and happier to be sometimes cheated than not to trust."

Recent visitors to our area were Gloria Morris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Singer from Lehigh Acres, Florida who spent a week with Ted, Gloria and family. The Singers have been in Canada for some weeks visiting friends and relatives before returning to their home in Florida. And I have had a welcome visitor. A friend of long standing, Mrs. Jean Jones of Scarborough spent a week with me and we had an enjoyable time. We took in the trip down Lake of Bays on the Britannia which was very pleasant although Thursday was a hazy day. The boat travelled down through the narrows and down the lake and went around Bigwin Island then back home. Of course, I remember Bigwin when it was an exclusive resort and it is nostalgic, to say the least, to see the changes over the years. And sad to see the rotting hull at the back of the island of the old Mohawk Belle which plied the Lake of Bays waters carrying passengers to and from Dorset. But enough of my reminiscing.

Jack and Willo Thompson of Sudbury and Mrs. Florence Wismer of Livingstone Lake were recent visitors at the rectory. The Thompsons were visiting Mrs. Wismer at her summer home and had been parishoners of Father Bradford when he was at Sudbury. Mrs. Christie Mackay visited with Father Bradford's mother when she was here from Burks Falls. The two ladies had been girlhood friends when they both lived in Egypt, Ontario.

What a short summer. It was nice while it lasted but didn't last long enough. However, maybe we will have a nice September with lots of sunshine. Let's hope so. The activity on the lake was slowed down a lot in the past week, whether people leave because of the cool, rainy weather or just want to get back so they can attend the Toronto Ex. is a moot question but they seem to have thinned out.

HOME OF THE WEEK

This two-storey three bedroom design has the appearance of a long-established country estate. The wide rustic porch, stone veneer finish and a dormer window combine to lend an air of permanence, tradition and rural elegance.

The entrance foyer leads down two risers to the vast sunken living room, which features a centrally-positioned cantilevered fireplace and sliding glass doors onto the rear patio.

A well-planned U-shaped kitchen separates from the formal dining room via sliding door, and connects to the large breakfast nook via convenient snack bar counter. Wide sliding glass doors from the nook to the rear patio greatly facilitate casual outdoor dining in fair weather.

A two-piece vanity bathroom and utility room for washer and dryer are concealed behind a sliding door connecting to the kitchen. This utility room also has access to the garage and rear workshop area, enabling it to function as a mud room.

The three bedrooms are laid out so that the children's rooms are within easy access to the central bath and linen storage area, yet do not disturb the privacy of the master bedroom. A very large unfinished area over the two car garage could be finished as a children's playroom or lounge; or perhaps as a studio or office for the professional or business family.

The large master bedroom has a three-piece ensuite with tub, which is separated from the convenient walk-in closet via sliding door.

Plans for design no. 77-1909 may be purchased either by the single set, at a cost of $70, for the first set and $10, for each additional set, or by the package. A five-set plan package, including the first set, is only $125.

Whichever method you choose, please include $4, for postage and handling.

Send for the current edition of Select Home Designs Magazine, Series 38, featuring imaginative decorating and home improvement ideas, plus 350 quality home plans of every type. Available for $2.25 ($1.75 plus 50 cents postage and handling.)

The Fenelon Falls Fair was the site of the Fenelon 4-H Calf Club Achievement Day on Saturday, August 18.

Philip Jones was the top beef showman in the club, followed by Allan Thompson, Jennifer Batty, Robert Batty, Susan Burnett and Brant Jones. Also competing were Janet Burnett, Donny Webster, Richard Webster, Ron Webster, Doug Brohm, Lisa Jones and Irwin Potter.

Placings in the Senior Beef Heifer Class were: 1st - Richard Webster; 2nd - Allan Thompson; 3rd - Lisa Jones; 4th - Brant Jones; 5th - Ron Webster. Also competing were Donny Webster, Janet Burnett and Doug Brohm.

In the Junior Beef Heifer Class, Irwin Potter placed first, Jennifer Batty, second and Robert Batty, third.

In the Steer Class, Philip Jones placed first, and Susan Burnett, second.

The champion beef animal was exhibited by Philip Jones.

In the dairy section, Pauline McLean placed first in the showmanship class and first in the dairy heifer class.

4-H members are required to attend Achievement Day in order to complete a project.

Leaders for the Fenelon Falls 4-H Calf Club are Jim Brown, Gary Lean and Jim Whitaker.

Blossom-end rot in tomatoes

Blossom-end rot is a common problem in tomato patches across Victoria and Haliburton Counties this summer.

Many people with tomatoes in their garden are finding fruit with a brownish, sunken, dead area on the blossom end. This rot is usually dry and firm.

The cause of this problem was the dry weather we had back in July. It is not caused by a disease-producing organism, so there is no chemical treatment possible to prevent it.

Blossom-end rot usually follows drought conditions, or conditions where we get too little rain, then too much rain.

Gardeners should pick off and discard any affected fruits.

ersheds to help replace losses occurring due to the high winds early in the week.

Gauge readings during these windy conditions are somewhat unreliable so losses can't be detected as fast.

Losses by evaporation are also increased by the wind.

Weekend rainfalls were quite light so evaporation from the Kawarthas amounted to a little less than 4 mm per day over the week.

Evaporation from the Kawarthas began to increase this week so slightly more reservoir flow was run than last week.

Rainfall yesterday amounted to 10 mm to 12 mm over the Kawarthas and 16.5 mm in Haliburton, which should ensure good levels this weekend.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching has declined about a centimetre over the week and no changes have been made at Washago.

Boat Traffic 'Increases' on the Waterway

By the end of July, traffic statistics were significantly up on the Trent-Severn Waterway.

Vessel movements through the locks for the two years are as follows: For the month of July - 1978, 71,654; 1979, 95,659. For the year to the end of July - 1978, 105,864; 1979, 130,772.

The statistics do show that the Trent-Severn Waterway is a major magnet for vacationers, despite rising gas costs. A study of the weekly statistical breakdown also suggests the greatest single factor affecting use of the system is the simple fact of good weather.

Don and Karen Dunsmore and sons Andrew, James and Jonathan of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, are spending their holidays with Karen's parents, Elwin and Mary Robertson at their cottage "Glencastle" on Lake Kashagawigamog.

Mr. Gary Watt of Vancouver, British Columbia, was a visitor here for a few days visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Watt.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Scheffee and family were recent visitors to Niagara Falls and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Belford of Tottenham spent a few days visiting with the Robertsons and Karen and Don Dunsmore at their cottage home on Kashagawigamog Lake this past week.

Junior Rangers

Though JR's can come from anywhere in the province, the majority of those who apply come from cities. For many of them, a stay at Moose Lake is a first experience of living without the amenities most people take for granted. The key to coping is to adapt, and it doesn't take long.

"Giving up something that you think is a necessity at home," is a challenge initially for most of the girls, Linda says, "but you soon realize that you don't need those kinds of things."

Laurie Davies of Sarnia and Laura Farrant of Thornhill are two of the 24 girls who came to Moose Lake this summer, and both are only too glad to tell you that they think it was a summer well spent.

Laurie says she heard about the JR program from a friend who had been involved in it last year. But she had a different picture of what it would be like. She was surprised to find permanent tents complete with aluminum screen doors on wooden platforms. It seems her friend had exaggerated the rough life of a Junior Ranger.

"I thought we were going to have little pup tents," Laurie laughs.

For Laurie, a summer in Haliburton is a marked change from a summer in Sarnia.

"Even the air I breathe is so much fresher. I really like it. I love the outdoors."

Laura Farrant is as enthusiastic about the program as Laurie. Her father used to run the program, she says, and she had been hearing about it for years, "so I've always wanted to come."

The work she did this summer wasn't all that difficult once you got used to it, Laura says. "It's strenuous at the time, but looking back, I don't think I've done any really hard work."

Though the summer at Moose Lake was an individual experience, and each girl will take home her own memories of the program, there's one thing all of them will remember. The food. Along with addresses of new friends, promises to write, and hopes for a reunion in the fall, many of the girls took home a pound or two they didn't have before. The food, it seems, was just too good to resist.
